HITLER'S NEW DEMANDS CARVE FRANCE, EMPIRE

VICHY, Oct. 23 (INS)—Following a vitally important meeting of the French council of ministers to consider new German demands on France, Vice-Premier Pierre Laval tody left for Paris to confer again with Adolf Hitler.

Axis Plans Real Warning To U. S. Before Election?

BUCHAREST, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Rumanian newspaper "Universul" carried on its front page in heavy black type today a Berlin dispatch which said the axis powers now plan:

The entrance of Spain into the war immediately, with an attack first on Gibraltar, the British Mediterranean fortress.

Definite military and naval action by Japan as a result of Britain's reopening of the Burma Road for war supplies to China.

Entrance of France into the war as a belligerent before the November 5 election in the United States.

The dispatch, to which diplomatic sources here attached much importance, said the axis powers were determined to strike out in all possible directions and with all possible means before the election "in order to give a real warning to America."

25 FEARED KILLED IN LONDON STORE

LONDON, Oct. 23—Eleven bodies were removed from the wreckage of one of London's largest department stores today while curious women, who came to see the results of a German bomb hit, went about their shopping in an undamaged part of the store.

About 25 persons were believed to have perished when the bomb smashed into the building last night. A store official said it would be "some time before a roll call can be completed and the exact number of fatalities determined."

The dead were employes who had lost their homes and had taken shelter in the store for the night.

Undamaged parts of the store were open for business today while the search went on.

A bomb of unusually large caliber scored a direct hit on the building, where members of the staff who had already been bombed out of their homes and residents of neighboring apartments had taken shelter for the night.

FOG HAMPERS NAZIS

Heavy anti-aircraft fire and dense fog over the Straits of Dover and German air bases in France combined during the night and early morning to hamper attacks on London.

Only a few Nazi raiders succeeded in reaching even the outskirts of the capital. The ones that did penetrate that far dropped a number of bombs that caused slight damage and a few casualties.

Daylight raiders soaring over the metropolitan area caused two alarms. During the first, a raider dropped three bombs on outlying districts of London. Two fell on open ground and the third in a residential section.

The second raid was brief and without incident.

Owing to the bad weather, it was disclosed, British bombers remained grounded last night.

This morning the Dover straits were darkened by heavy raineloud and occasional showers, while a dense mist shrouded the sea.

On the whole the night was one of the quietest that London has experienced in many weeks. Despite this, most Londoners remained in underground shelters until dawn.

RAIDS HALT EARLY

An air ministry announcement confirmed that German air activity during the night was carried out on a "much reduced scale" and said that save for a few isolated incidents the attacks ended well before midnight.

In the midlands, said the announcement, an attack of two hours was concentrated chiefly against one town, damaging houses and other buildings and causing some casualties, including a few killed. Bombs also were dropped on the London area and nearby home counties and isolated points in western England and south Wales, the air ministry said.

An earlier official announcement said three German planes were destroyed yesterday while six British fighters were lost. It stated, however, that two of the British pilots were safe.

MIDLANDS HIT

A number of high explosives dropped on a town in the midlands, damaging a police station and shops and trapping some residents in a hotel public shelter. A second midlands town was reported heavily raided while a third sent word that some time bombs were dropped on it.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that more pioneer (workers) squads and unemployed miners will be brought into London for rescue work and to aid the task of clearing up debris after air raids.

As France's fate hung in the balance, Laval rushed back to Paris with what were believed to be compromise proposals to the final peace demands Germany is reported to have made on France.

Foreign correspondents were not permitted to send details of these reported demands abroad.

A Reuters, British News Agency, dispatch, however, said the Zurich newspaper Volksrecht had listed the following seven points as the proposed German basis for a settlement with France:

Northern French Morocco to be handed over to Spain.

Indo-China to be handed over to Japan.

Tunis to be divided between France and Italy.

The remaining French African colonies to be jointly administered and exploited by France, Germany and Italy except Algeria, which would remain French.

France to place the Mediterranean fleet and the north African air force at the disposal of the Axis for use against Britain.

(Germany to get Alsace-Lorraine and Italy to get Nice.

(In return, Germany to evacuate all of occupied France except the channel ports and a strip of Burgundy along the Swiss frontier to the Belgian frontier and the Somme. This would include the famous Maginot line of forts.

(The dispatch said Marshal Petain had led the fight against acceptance.

(Neutral sources immediately saw in the German terms the results of the Hitler-Mussolini conference at the Brenner Pass three weeks ago.)—Editor's note.

All nearby units of the French Mediterranean fleet were being massed at Toulon in a sudden and unexplained move.

The Council of Ministers, presided over by Marshal Henri Petain, chief of state, met here at 5 p. m. Laval had arrived back from Paris only a short time before.

The meeting did not last long and Laval was on his way back to Paris before 6:30.

London reported a Repters dispatch from Madrid quoting a German wireless report that Hitler and Generalissimo Francisco Franco, accompanied by their foreign ministers, have arrived at the French-Spanish frontier and presumably are conferring there. The dispitch said Foreign Ministers Joachmin von Ribbentrop of Germany and Ramon Serrano Suner of Spain accompanied their chiefs.—Editor's note.

Meanwhile, the greatest excitement continued to prevail in Vichy.

AGREEMENT UNLIKELY

Chances for the signing of a final peace treaty between France and Germany were considered "very scarce" here tonight.

However, the fact that no final peace treaty may be signed just yet does not necessarily mean that

King Carol, Magda Arrested, Now Face Return to Rumania

SEVILLE, Spain, Oct. 23 (AP)—Former King Carol of Rumania, his red-haired friend, Magda Lupescue, and Ernst Urdareanu, minister of the palace, were under virtual arrest today with a strong police gaurd around their hotel.

They were notified of this yesterday and were to have been taken to Granada while the Spanish government considered their case and the possibility of their return to Rumania, but today the foreign office, apparently acting on an appeal from Carol, stayed execution of the removal order, pending conferences with Urdareanu.

The former minister, who accompanied his ruler into exile from Rumania, was a badly frightened man and had joined Carol in pleading for an interview.

Carol argued in his telegram that international law did not sanction the extradition of Mme. Lupescu and Urdareanu to Rumania "where the threat of death awaits them."

BURNS DOCUMENTS

Mme. Lupescu burned documents in the bathrom of her hotel apartment last night, said a maid, who reported she found a deposit of ashes and smudges from smoke on the walls.

While it was indicated that Carol might not be forced to return to Rumania, one member of his party said he would not be surprised if the former king followed Mme. Lupescu to Bucharest if she returned there.

All three appeared shocked when the police apprised them of the sudden change in their fortunes. Carol had been reported making preparations for going to the United States, and frequently since his arrival here had been in telephonic communication with Lisbon, Portugal.

The police told the ex-monarch and the others they would be sent

U. S. to Set Traps For Draft Dodgers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—A book that is wise to all the tricks and artful dodges will aid selective service medical examiners in exposing fakers who attempt to evade the draft by pretending to be ill or disabled.

DRAFT PROTEST'S END—After pleading not guilty to charge of failing to register for selective service draft, the Rev. Keith C. Kanaga, 25, assistant pastor of the Mt. Vernon Congregational Church, followed the example of the Rev. Harry H. Kruener, 24, pastor of the First Baptist Church[and registered. Here, the Rev. Mr. Kanaga is pictured registering with Katherine Karmeris.

Going out from national draft headquarters to the 48 states today, the volume contains physical standards for men to be drafted into the army. As forecast, the standards are slightly less exacting than regular army requirements.

Broadly, the regulations state that, to be eligible for the army, a registrant "must be able to see well; have comparatively good hearing; have a heart able to withstand the stress of physical exertion; be intelligent enough to understand and execute military maneuvers, obey commands, and protect himself; and be able to transport himself by walking as the exigencies of military life may demand."

Doctors attached to each local draft board will examine all men who are placed in Class 1—available for service—on the basis of their answers to the draft questionnaire which will be sent to all 17,000,000 men who registered last week.

Questionnaires will be mailed in the order in which the serial numbers of draft-age men are drawn in next Tuesday's national lottery here.

PUT IN CLASSES

In the order of the lottery, Class 1 men will be given physicial examinations and further classified as follows:

Class 1A—Qualified for general military service (certain college students will be placed in Class 1D until the end of the present school term; certain conscientious objectors will be listed among the unfit).

Class 1B—Qualified for limited military service.

Class 4F—Totally and permanently disqualified.

It is anticipated that only those in class 1A, about one man in every five registered, will be called for training under the present program. Others might be called in an emergency.

Local doctors are instructed by the regulations to watch for

Kisses, More Kisses Charged in Love Suit

Kisses and more kisses were exchanged by Mrs. Sarah M. Toy, wealthy Mattapan widow, and Barney Meshon, a Boston builder, it was testified by Meshon's former partner today in Superior Court, where Mrs. Toy is charged with stealing Barney's love.

In an alienation of affections suit being tried before Judge Paul G. Kirk, Mrs. Fanny Meshon, middle-aged mother of four children, alleges that Mrs. Toy, also middle-aged and the mother of three, enticed Barney to leave home and file a divorce suit.

Testifying today, Morris Green of Adams st., Dorchester, now manager of a dress shop, said that for a time he was Barney Meshon's partner in the business of constructing and remodeling buildings.

TELLS OF N. H. TRIP

On several occasions, said Green, Meshon introduced Mrs. Toy as Mrs. Meshon.

Just before May 30, 1937, the witness said, Barney suggested going away to Litchfield, N. H., for the holiday and when Green asked who was going, Barney said.

"My sweetheart and her two brothers and their two wives."

The party was arranged, according to Green.

Green and his wife, the former said, drove up in their car, with Barney and Mrs. Toy in the back seat. Asked what he observed, the witness answered:

"A lot of kissing and hugging going on in the back seat."

That night, the witness said, he and his wife went to visit relatives in Manchester, N. H., with Barney and Mrs. Toy accompanying them.

Upon their return to Litchfield, Barney and Mrs. Toy entered the same bungalow, according to Green, and at 6:30 in the morning Green tapped on a window of the bungalow.

SAW HUGGING, KISSING

"What did you see?" Green was asked.

"Barney and Mrs. Toy were in bed," replied the witness.

"Did you say anything?"

"I asked him to come down for a swim. He said no."

He had known Barney had left his wife, Green testified, and after the separation Meshon used to dine at the Green home three or four nights a week.

Mrs. Toy would arrive there about 8:00 or 8:30, the witness said, and she and Barney would go into the parlor, where the at on his lap, "kissing and hugging him."

Green said further that on one occasion when the business needed more money, he suggested that Barney put in more but Barney said he did not have it.

Then Green suggested that he get it from Mrs. Toy who, it had been testified, put $2000 into the business. But Meshon said Mrs. Toy had no more money. Green said that he then asked Barney why he continued to go around with her and that Barney replied

"I'm sorry I done it but it's too late now."

Afterward, said the witness, Mrs. Toy telephoned him and rebuked him for attempting to have Barney leave her. The witness said he replied to her:

"He's 21 and knows what he's doing."

PASTORS ARE HELD AS 2D REGISTERS

Boston's two ministers who refused to register for the draft were arraigned on the charge today, pleaded not guilty, and then the second recalcitrant followed the example of the first by registering.

Each was freed under $1000 bail, personal recognizance.

This second conscientious objector, the Rev. Keith Coldren Kanaga, 25, assistant pastor of the Mt. Vernon Congregational Church, didn't go through the registration process, however, until he had issued a long statement declaring war against war.

The 6-foot-2-inch 155-pounder told authorities he was a native of Kansas. He was fingerprinted and treated like a common defiant of the law, before this happened.

WILL WAR ON WAR

So was the Rev. Harry Howard Kruener, 24, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Boston.

Kruener had signed up with draft authorities before he answered his indictment in federal court, but the entire process irked his colleague no end.

"I'm going to unite the people of the United States and of the world against war," the Rev. Mr. Kanaga declared.

Then he passed around to reporters who had followed him to the federal marshal's office the following prepared statement:

"It has become increasingly apparent to me that the public and the administrative authorities of the draft board will refuse to allow me a defense case against registration.

"Contrarily, both the public and the federal prosecutors insist on interpreting my refusal to register as a mere civil disobedience, in the same category as criminals and poltroons.

EXPLAINS STAND

"Nothing is actually further from the truth. My intentions have been and still remain a protest and combating of the whole war system in general and the draft in particular, with the most efficient weapons of legal standing at my disposal.

"I had thought that refusing to register would be that weapon.

"I am now convinced that the trial resulting from such a course of action would not allow me to defend myself on conscientious grounds.

"To allow such a trial, when I might prevent it, would be to make any further opposition to the war system a physical impossibility for me and a more difficult task for other pacifists, who in the eyes of the public, at least, would share my contumely.

"Therefore there remains only the rational choice for me of accepting registration as a means to the end of obtaining the liberty to organize against and pursue a more vigorous course of opposition to war and its attendant evils.

REGISTERS FOR DRAFT

"This new war for a moral democracy has just begun; be assured that we will not rest until victory is won."

On his way to draft registration headquarters for his district—at Warren Chambers in the Back Bay—the objecting minister echoed these thoughts.

At the headquarters he was the only registrant to appear. Without any objecion, former Postmaster Roland M. Baker, chairman of the

Hubby Took All, So She Wins Divorce

When her husband deserted her, Mrs. Grace M. Crook of Pawtucket, R. I., testified in Brookline Probate Court today, he not only moved out of the house himself, but he took all the furniture.

Mrs. Crook said she married George A. Crook of Pleasant st., Plainville, on Aug. 26, 1918 in Newmarket, N. H.

"During our married life he was always running around with other women," she told Judge George M. Poland. "He used to go away week-ends. I always had to work. We used to fight about it.

"Then, in 1928, we were living in Attleboro—but I was spending my time in Mansfield, taking care of my stepmother.

"One week-end I went back to Attleboro to find he had moved out of the house and taken every piece of furniture with him. He told the landlady he was moving to Mansfield to be near me, but I never saw him again."

She was granted her freedom.

'No Third Term' Rally in Lexington

Hammering home their battle cry of "No Third Term," supporters of Wendell Willkie gather on historic Lexington Green this afternoon in an unique demonstration against President Roosevelt's re-election ambitions.

Just as in Colonial days, "minutemen" from every Middlesex County city and town and from scores of other communities throughout the state, prepared to make Lexington the No. 1 battle ground in observance of "No Third Term Day."

Speaker of the day is Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State under President Wilson.

Child Romps During Parents' Court Fight

Gail Anne Whoriskey, 22-months-old and a pretty ash blonde already, played gaily outside Suffolk court today while her mother and father grimly battled for her custody.

Lawyers, judges, reporters, cameramen and the matter of custody meant nothing to Gail Anne, who shouted with laughter as she ran from the father, who allegedly stole her away from Fall River last Sunday, to the mother who enlisted police and agents of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children in the three-day hunt for her baby.

CUSTODY TO MOTHER

Gail Anne was born to William A. Whoriskey of Tremont st., Roxbury, and Mrs. Elma Wilcox Whoriskey 22 months ago.

Six months ago the Whoriskeys separated and she took the baby to Seekonk, R. I.

Whoriskey, seeking the child, went to Providence to obtain a habeas corpus writ for her return. Instead, according to investigators, custody was given to the mother with the provision the father should occasionally see the baby at the home of mutual friends in Fall River.

FATHER TOOK BABY

According to M. S. P. C. C. investigators, Whoriskey took the baby away from Fall River last Sunday and brought her to Boston.

The frantic mother rushed here, and armed with another habeas corpus writ, searched Roxbury for her child for three days.

Today, Whoriskey brought the baby into court and Judge Frederic Greenhalge in Superior Court and Judge William Prest in Probate Court united in giving sole custody to the mother with the provision Whoriskey pay $7 a week for maintenance of the baby.

Farley to Vote Straight Ticket

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (INS)—Former National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley today was expected to participate no further in the current presidential campaign than yesterday's statement that he would vote the straight Democratic ticket.

Farley bowed to the pressure of friends in the party to speak out for the Democratic ticket with a statement reiterating his party loyalty. However, the statement did not mention President Roosevelt, whose third term nomination Farley opposed, or Henry Wallace, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, by name.

Reviewing his many years of party service, Farley, who is still New York state chairman, concluded:

"At the national convention of the Democratic party in Chicago—at which I was a candidate for the presidency—after the balloting was over I pledged my support to the nominees of that convention. That pledge was made in good faith. I shall vote the straight Democratic ticket on Nov. 5 and urge the members of my party to do likewise."

Screaming Women Fill Grand Central As Guard Leaves

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—In a scene of mass hysteria almost unprecedented in Grand Central Terminal, hundreds of screaming, weeping women broke through police lines today to clutch at the arms and shoulders of relatives and sweethearts in the National Guard as they left for training at Ft. McClellan, near Anniston, Ala.

Many mothers and sisters of departing men shrieked wildly when they were forced to release their uniformed relatives.

The scene followed upon officers' commands to fall in. The Guardsmen were ordered to proceed to train level at double-quick time.

DELAWARE HEARS F. D. VOTE PLEA

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today in a brief speech at Wilmington that he hoped the people of Delaware would "reaffirm" with ballots this year "their own definition of 'liberty'—the same definition they made four years ago."

Bound for Philadelphia, where he will deliver tonight the first of five or six major political speeches prior to Nov. 5 elections, Mr. Roosevelt spoke at Wilmington from the rear platform of his special train.

RECALLS FABLE

After telling in his prepared speech a fable which he said Abraham Lincoln once used to illustrate the difference between a sheep's idea of "liberty" and a wolf's idea of it, the President said:

"In 1936 the people of the United States took definite action to define what they intended Liberty to mean in this country in the next four years. They repudiated the wolf's dictionary.

"I am sure that this year the people, not only of Delaware, but of the United States, are all taking a renewed interest in that word 'Liberty.' There are not so many countries left where the word has any real meaning."

SPEAKS AT 9:30 TONIGHT

The President left Washington by special train about noon. Combining the campaign trip with further inspections of defense facilities, he planned to spend some of the late afternoon on a motor tour of the New York Shipbuilding Co.'s plant in Camden, N. J., and the Frankford Arsenal and the Cramp shipbuilding establishment in Philadelphia.

The President will speak at 9:15 p. m. (E. S. T.). Two national radio networks will carry the speech, the time for which will be paid by the Democratic National Committee. The occasion is National Youth Day and the title of the address, America Looks to the Future."

Al Smith will make his first speech in the campaign for Willkie at 10 p. m.

Willkie, en route East from a mid-west tour, is scheduled to go on the air at 10:30 p. m. The Republican nominee will address the Herald-Tribune Forum in New York city.

Willkie to N. Y. for 3 Talks, Smith Parley

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—Disputing President Roosevelt's ability to keep the United States out of foreign wars, Wendell L. Willkie headed East from Chicago today for a series of campaign addresses and a dinner conference with Alfred E. Smith.

Willkie's aides announced that Smith, 1928 Democratic presidential nominee who is supporting the present Republican candidate, would board the latter's special train at Harmon, N. Y., early this evening and ride to New York.

There Willkie will make three night addresses, in the Bronx Coliseum, at Manhattan center, and at the New York Herald Tribune Forum.

MISSILE HITS WILLKIE

Two hours before leaving Chicago at the LaSalle st. railroad station, Willkie was hit by a missile believed to have been a frozen egg. His wife was splattered with an egg. Police arrested a man who was later booked as Charles Mulrain, 33, an unemployed stationary engineer.

Willkie's address was delivered before a noisy, cheering crowd which overflowed the 25,000 seats of the hall where President Roosevelt was renominated last summer. He called on the President to say whether he (Willkie) had "falsified the record" when he charged that the New Deal had broken several 1932 Democratic platform pledges.

"If his (the President's) promise to keep our boys out of foreign wars is no better than his promise to balance the budget, they are already practically on the transports," the candidate said.

The statement was added extemporaneously to his prepared text, which said:

POINTS TO PROMISE

"The New Deal promises to keep us out of war. The third term candidate says he hates war. He said on Sept. 41: 'I have one supreme determination—to do all I can to keep war away from these shores for all time.'

"That is the promise.

"My fellow citizens: In the light of the record I challenge it. The third term candidate has not kept faith with the American people. How are we to know that he will begin to keep it now."

Willkie read excerpts from the 1932 Democratic platform regarding advocacy of a sound currency, restoration of world trade, reduction of taxes, an end to unemployment, and economy in federal expenditures.

After mentioning each one and contending that the pledge had not been kept, Willkie said:

CALLS FOR ANSWER

"Mr. Third Term Candidate, when you begin your belated discussion of campaign issues tomorrow night, I would like you to tell the people whether Wendell Willkie is falsifying that part of the record."

The audience cheered loudly each time the sentence was uttered.

Announcing that he was reading the "New Deal Record" which he challenged Mr. Roosevelt to prove false, Willkie said:

"We have stopped growing. Our national income is smaller. Our workers get less. Our farmers get less. More than nine million of our citizens are without jobs. We have little equipment for our army, and we have only a few hundred modern military airplanes.

The crowd booed mention of President Roosevelt's name as Willkie called attention to the size of the meeting.

DEVER CITES RECORD IN VOTE PLEA

Atty-Gen. Paul A. Dever today cited smashing of the loan shark racket, the collection agency racket and prompt trial of land damage cases as accomplishments worthy of his election as Governor.

At the same time, the entire Republican state ticket attacked the Democratic cause, with Henry Parkman, Jr., again charging that his opponent, Sen. David I. Walsh, had resisted every move that has been undertaken in behalf of national defense.

Among the new Democrats recruited to the Saltonstall cause was Bernard J. Rothwell, who opposed him two years ago. Rothwell said:

"I feel that, inheriting a difficult condition, you have done a good job. You have conducted the office in a manner to restore its dignity, and, therefore, as a Democrat, I am strongly in favor of your re-election."

Atty-Gen. Dever also called attention to the $5,200,000 new revenue brought the state in the inheritance tax from the Col. Edward H. R. Green estate.

In answer to Parkman charges that he was an obstructionist, Senator Walsh declared he had played an important part in raising the navy strength in three years.

In asking for Walsh's defeat, Parkman charged that the senior senator was against Wendell Willkie, against President Roosevelt and also the public welfare.

VICHY WEIGHS HITLER'S TERMS

no new agreement will be reached between France and Germany.

The purpose of the present negotiations between Hitler and Laval is understood to be France's desire to reach a "modus vivendi" which would replace certain restrictive clauses of the armistice and permit France to await more comfortably the "just peace" that is expected at the conclusion of the European war.

Earlier in the day Foreign Minister Paul Baudouin had asserted France had no intention of declaring war on England.

An Associated Press dispatch from Vichy quotes a government spokesman as stating that "France will undertake no military, naval or aerial action against England." He adds, further, that "France will not declare war on England under any circumstances."—Editor's note.

Berlin Hails Hitler Meeting With Laval

BERLIN, Oct. 23 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's meeting yesterday with France's vice-premier, Pierre Laval, is described by authorized German sources as the best answer to British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's efforts to "stir up" the French against the axis powers.

Beyond this statement these sources declined to go today, but there was little doubt in the minds of observers that the French and German governments were working to place their relations on a new basis and, if possible, emerge from the present "twilight stage" of armistice in which there still is no formally signed peace.

"Peace on the continent" has been a watchword of the German foreign office for some time. The Hitler-Laval meeting may safely be termed another effort at European continental pacification under the axis leadership.

Circles generally regarded as well-informed voiced the opinion the meeting might result in bringing France closer to axis policy and enable her government to return to Paris.

Spain Arrests Carol, Magda

to Granada while their case was under consideration.

MAGDA HEARS NEWS

Urdareanu was reported to have raised hands which trembled and in a faltering voice exclaimed:

"They'll kill me if we are sent back to Rumania. How is extradition possible?"

The chief of police notified them at their hotel.

Through the partly opened door Mme. Lupescu listened to the opening conversation. The news perhaps was not altogether a surprise since the Madrid newspaper, Arriba, organ of the Spanish Falangists, hinted yesterday that she and Urdareanu might be compelled to return to Rumania to face trial.

Urdareanu's emaciated face became tense.

"His Majesty should hear about this," he said weakly.

Then he and Mme. Lupescu withdrew to Carol's suite, followed by the police chief.

The king, it was reported, could scarcely conceal his astonishment.

"Who, pray, gave you those orders?" he demanded.

"My superiors," replied the chief.

Almost mechanically Carol asked:

"And who are your superiors?"

The chief did not answer.

Later, however, Carol was told that he and the others could go into town under escort.

The former king and his companions were reported to be in such low spirits that they did not eat.

TRIES TO SMILE

Carol, however, seemed to perk up slightly after a visit from the civil governor, who told him they would leave for Granada tomorrow. He even tried to smile.

Reports from Bucharest had quoted Rumanian officials as saying that the government had decided to ask for the extradition of Mme. Lupescu and Urdareanu. The Iron Guard in Rumania has demanded the arrest and trial of Mme. Lupescu.

An editorial in Arriba yesterday accused Carol's two companions of complicity in the assassination of a former Iron Guard chief.—Editor's note.

Japs to Fight For Indies Oil

TOKYO, Oct. 23 (AP)—The influential newspaper Asahi declared today Japan must bring the Netherlands East Indies "over to our side"—by "armed force" if necessary—to provide oil for the Japanese war machine.

Reports from Hanoi, French Indo-China, announced the start of removal from northern Indo-China of Japanese troops who fought their way into the country last month.

In Hongkong, the Central Chinese news agency said the first fleet of supply trucks to negotiate the Burma road since Britain reopened it last week, in the face of Japanese bomb threats, had reached Kunming, capital of the southernmost Chinese province of Yunnan, yesterday.

Turkish Paper Warns Nazis Not to Attack

ISTANBUL, Oct. 23 (AP)—An editorial in the newspaper Kidam today said Germany "must envisage war with us" if she tries to force a passage through Turkey to the Suez canal.

The newspaper, discussing the possibility of such a German maneuver, said "we have always said and we repeat once more that Turkey has taken her decision. It consists of taking arms if and when Turkey's territory and independence are attacked."

Bomb Truck Late, Men Miss Blast

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP)—A London bomb disposal squad gave thanks today that one of its trucks arrived late.

They had dug out a delayed action bomb and prepared for its removal, but the truck didn't come. So the men went off to lunch.

While they were eating, the bomb exploded. No one was injured.

Rome Says 3000 Lost on Convoy

ROME, Oct. 23 (AP)—Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor, asserted today that six ships of a large British convoy were sunk with the loss of all hands by Italian war vessels in Sunday's battle of the Red Sea, reported yesterday by the Italian high command.

Gayda estimated that the convoy, made up of 36 large ships with a strong naval escort, carried 22,000 troops, implying that one-sixth of that number, between 3000 and 4000 men, were lost.

The British admiralty yesterday declared that none of the vessels in the convoy was damaged and that the only British casualties in the battle were three men wounded aboard the destroyer Kimberley, which later blew up the Italian destroyer Francesco Nullo.—Editor's note.

Gayda said he believed the convoy was carrying 10,000 British troops from Singapore to strengthen the British forces in the Near East.

Nazi Production Cut by Bombs

LONDON, Oct. 23 AP)—Authoritative British quarters said today they had reliable information that 20 per cent of Germany's productive capacity has been affected by British bombing and that the Germans have been forced to contemplate the "rebuilding" of Hamburg, the Reich's greatest seaport.

In the Meuhof area of Hamburg, for instance, large oil refineries have been forced to close, and three silos containing 10,000 tons of wheat, docks and important dockside buildings were said to have been destroyed.

Why 2 out of 3 Bay Staters Bank With Mutual Savings Banks

With a record for safety unexcelled by any other banking system, Mutual Savings Banks are of vital importance to the economic life and well-being of Massachusetts. To every citizen they offer safety and earning power for savings, and sound, inexpensive means for buying or refinancing a home. Become one of the thousands who are profiting by the services of the Mutual Savings Bank near you.

The first Mutual Savings Bank in America was established in Boston in 1816. Conceived on an entirely new principle of mutuality, it has exerted a profound influence on American life.

So sound did the idea prove that the number of Mutual Savings Banks in Massachusetts has steadily increased until today 192 of these strong institutions are serving every section in the state.

Each Mutual Savings Bank is governed by a Board of Trustees—men outstanding in the community, who give their services to maintain an institution for the common good.

Nearly three million people have more than two billion dollars on deposit in these banks today. Operated solely for the benefit of depositors, earnings are paid out in dividends on these savings.

In the past ten years, Mutual Savings Banks have arranged mortgages for over seventy five thousand Massachusetts citizens for buying, refinancing or remodelling their homes.

Saving for specific purposes is made doubly easy by the Mutual Savings Banks. Last year over 355,000 Bay Staters received more than $14,000,000 from Christmas Clubs alone.

Many Boston Youths Seek to Volunteer

Many youths in Boston have already appeared at their local draft board headquarters to ask that they be classified as volunteers, it was disclosed today.

An average of two or three for each of Boston's 27 offices, within the past 24 hours, have waived their rights to be called according to order numbers, officials said.

Practically all of the state's 173 district boards have been organized and serial numbers are being posted now.

START DUE TUESDAY

With these numbers, the Bay Staters may follow their fortunes during the drawing at Washington which is expected to start Tuesday afternoon and last for at least 24 hours.

Officials also said that 44 boards have completed numbering registration cards. This procedure is an important initial step as explained by Maj. David B. Weden, state public relations officer. He said that without giving the total registrans, boards cannot get authorizations for clerical help.

The only two unorganized, Judge Anthony Centracchio, chairman of oBard 13, and Judge Jacob Speigel, chairman of Board 28, who ran into unexpected difficulties, said they expected to complete arrangements for offices today.

FIRST 10 LIST 8

The first 10 boards that have posted a list of serial numbers outside their headquarters follow: Falmouth, with 1239 registrants; Holyoke board No. 78, with 2445; Andover, 1472; Billerica, 2183; Gardner, 2772; Northampton, 229; Somerset, 1722; Winchester, 2206; Lawrence, 2489, and Dukes, 301.

Meanwhile, Col. Porter B. Chase of the adjutant-general's office, announced that induction of the entire 26th (Yankee) Division of the Massachusetts National Guard has been tentatively set for Jan. 3 under orders from the First Corps Area.

The induction, which will be at Camp Edwards, will leave Massachusetts without any national guard within the state. Steps already have been taken, however, to provide for a home guard.

Lynn Pushes Hunt for Gang Chief Suspect

Lynn police today intensified their hunt for a 26-year-old Peabody man described as the leader of a North Shore auto theft and holdup gang.

Authorities admitted that apparently the man had escaped from the Lynn woods reservation area on the Lynn-Peabody line where he had at first been believed trapped.

He fled there last night after a stolen car in which he had been chased through Peabody and Lynn, crashed into a gatehouse on Great Woods rd., and immediately a squad of 50 officers were sent to surround the place.

E. Boston Draft Board Sets Mark

What is believed will be the largest registration of any Boston district, and perhaps in the state, was reported today at the State House from District 12, East Boston, by Atty. Cosimo D. Nicastro, secretary for that district.

The Nicastro board registered 5314 residents of the district. In addition it registered 340 men from outside areas, most of them seamen.

The board's headquarters is in the library building, 276 Meridian st. As yet the other East Boston board, for District 13, has been unable to find a location.

board, registered the Rev. Mr. Kanaga.

BOTH GET NUMBERS

He found himself, apart from the press, without an audience. It had been almost the same in the federal court session a couple of hours earlier. Only a handful watched the two conscientious objectors waive reading of the indictment against them and plead not guilty.

Both were given numbers—not draft numbers—after arrangement was made to release them on personal recognizance.

The Rev. Mr. Kanaga is now No. 3527 on the federal files. The Rev. Mr. Kruener is No. 3528. These numbers refer to the indictments against them.

When the Rev. Mr. Kanaga finally did get out of court and up to the draft headquarters, he was still annoyed at the procedure of having been fingerprinted, but he insisted that no pressure of law could make him change his mind on war.

WIFE LOST JOB

His bride, the former Sally Mary Farthing, daughter of blind Judge Paul Farthing of the Illinois Supreme Court, lost her position as secretary to a Back Bay physician as the result of her husband's refusal to register.

He disclosed that she had already been employed again, this time in a downtown Boston store. She has been working since Monday, he said, although the position was only temporary.

malingers who feign disqualifying physical defects and for patriots who attempt to hide defects in order to get into the army.

Men suspected of malingering may be reported to the national director, or to the local United States attorney for prosecution.

FEW TO ESCAPE

While discouraging disclosure of the tests they have designed to catch fakers, national defense officers significantly warned that few tricksters would escape.

The doctors will be on the lookout for men who pretend to be blind or deaf, men who take drugs to cause abnormal heart action, who put sand under their eyelids to cause inflammation, who take acid to stimulate jaundice, who use fake crutches, or those who pretend insanity or epilepsy.

Meanwhile, officials hastened efforts to complete arrangements for drawing the numbers in the lottery.

A crew of six will start work Friday afternoon to put each of the 7,500 or more serial numbers in non-transparent capsules for the drawing.

Physical Standards Listed for Draftees

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Physical standards for men to be drafted into the army, as published today, will include:

HEIGHT—Sixty inches minimum and 78 inches maximum.

WEIGHT—105 pounds minimum (those whose weight is so great as to interfere with training will not be accepted).

EYESIGHT—Normal vision or a minimum sharpness of 20/100 in each eye, which can be corrected with glasses to 20/40 (the 20 represents the distance of 20 feet which a patient stands away from a test chart and the 40 represents the size of the type on the lowest line of the chart which he can read; since 20/20 is normal vision, 20/40 is, roughly, half of normal).

HEARING—Normal hearing (the ability to hear a low conversational voice at 20 feet with each ear separately) or minimum hearing in each ear of 10/20 (which means ability to hear at 10 feet the conversational voice which a normal ear can hear at 20 feet).

DISEASES—Mild cases of many diseases will be overlooked, but those with such diseases as cancer, active tuberculosis, acute rheumatic fever, osteomyelitis, chronic arthritis and late syphilis will be rejected.

TEETH—A minimum of three chewing teeth above and three below, meeting each other, and three cutting teeth above and three below, also meeting.

FEET AND HANDS—Some defects are permissible, such as an absent left thumb, loss of two fingers of either hand except where the two are the right index and middle finger, a slight clubfoot, web fingers and toes unless severe, and absence of one or two small toes if the foot otherwise is good.

You correct faulty living habits—unless liver bile flows freely every day into your intestines to help digest fatty foods and guard against constipation.

SO USE COMMON SENSE! Drink more water, eat more fruit and vegetables. And if assistance is needed, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They not only assure gentle yet thorough bowel movements but ALSO stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! Used successfully for over 20 years by Dr. F. M. Edwards in treating patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile, today Olive Tablets are justly FIRST choice of thousands of grateful users. Test their goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. Snowflakes and Fish

Snow on a warm day? Large snow flakes. Cold day? Small flakes. The lower the temperature, the smaller the crystals formed by freezing.

40-Fathom used this principle in developing the famous quick-freezing process that has revolutionized the fishing industry. Slow freezing? Large ice crystals—damaged tissue, loss of firmness and flavor. Quick freezing (at 35° below)? Tiny, in fact microscopic ice crystals, no harm to delicate cell structure, no loss of firmness and flavor. Freshness sealed in with a lightning blast of Arctic cold.

A treat for the whole nation! And good business for Boston, now more important than ever before as the center of America's oldest industry.

Saltonstall Links Quabbin Reservoir

Opening of a valve by Governor Saltonstall this afternoon signalized completion of the Quabbin Reservoir and brought water to Boston from the Connecticut Valley 68 miles away. The Governor, officiating at the ceremonies at Ware, declared:

"This is an enduring symbol of the peace which we enjoy and the way of life which we cherish here in this great country.

"Here is a product of man's genius, created solely for the greater comfort of his fellow men. Here was a vast engineering feat which created a lake of 39 square miles where dry valleys lay.

6 VILLAGES UPROOTED

"Six villages and all their inhabitants had to be uprooted from their homes. Yet this upheaval of the landscape, this transplanting of human lives, proceeded without a protest, without a hitch, because the objective was the common good and the decision was the will of the people."

The Governor said the journey for an average quart of water from a faucet in Boston would take three days and 72 miles through the long Quabbin Aqueduct tunnel. It will take a year to pass through Wachusett Reservoir and another two days to reach the city.

The pipe line will carry 300,000,000 gallons of water a day to homes and factories in the Metropolitan area.

"No matter how far away science may lead us from the old town pump," the Governor said, "I trust that the drift of our complex economy will shift in the direction of a more self sufficient individual life.

HULTMAN SPEAKS

"I am unconvinced that government—true democratic government—begins at home and has its foundation in the community and the state. That is the trend that must be encouraged, invigorated and stimulated in our United States today—a feeling of new courage, a proud independence of spirit, a persistent urge to make a living, own a home and raise a large family—in common parlance, the intestinal fortitude of the Minute Men of '76."

Before the ceremonies, Governor Saltonstall, Mayor Mansfield, Senator Walsh, Senator Lodge and other high officials were guests at a luncheon.

The ceremonies were broadcast from the platform at the dam over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

'Too Many Girls' Is Screen Hit

LUCILLE BALL and Desi Arnaz, who appear in "Too Many Girls," which brings Broadway to Main Street—via the screen.

Brings Broadway To Main Street

George Abbott has brought Broadway to Main Street at no extra cost.

His latest effort to present high-priced New York entertainment for the nation at large at small-town popcorn box levels is RKO's musical comedy hit "Too Many Girls," scintillating film which co-stars Lucille Ball, Richard Carlson and Ann Miller.

Theater patrons on the Great White Way paid $5.50 per to see "Too Many Girls" during its eight-month run there. New moviegoers throughout the country can view an enlarged and more extravagant version at ordinary rates.

The film is the year's top musical, is replete with beauteous chorines, catchy Rodgers and Hart tunes, sensational dance sequences and rib-tickling comedy—all centered about the adventures of a madcap heiress and her four All-American football player bodyguards. Location for the action is mythical Pottawatomie College in Stop Gap County, New Mexico.

Abbott seized eagerly on the greater scope offered by the screen to produce and direct his stage success with a lavishness and latitude impossible in the theater.

From New York he imported Desi Arnaz, Hal LeRoy, Eddie Bracken and others who had scored sensational hits in the stage version. To them he added such screen favorites as Richard Carlson, Lucille Ball, Ann Miller, Frances Langford and Chester Clute.

Rodgers and Hart were prevailed upon to write a new tuneful offering to be presented along with "I Didn't Know What Time It Was," "Love Never Went To College," "Spic and Spanish" and other hit songs already in the show.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

Quincy Homecoming For Ruth Gordon

Boston defers to Quincy and its triumphant homecoming plans for a distinguished daughter, Ruth Gordon, (born in Wollaston and educated in Quincy) and so "Here Again," starring Miss Gordon, will open Tuesday instead of Monday evening at the Copley Theater.

On Monday evening, Miss Gordon is to be given a testimonial by the citizens of Greater Quincy, headed by Mayor Burgin, Mrs. J. Hobart Stebbins, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs of Quincy, and Earnest L. Collins.

Fritz Kreisler Opens Concerts Sunday

Fritz Kreisler, world famous violinist, will open the Aaron Richmond Celebrity Series this Sunday afternoon in Symphony Hall.

His popular program will include works by Bach, Mozart, Schubert, and his transcriptions of works by Brahms and Dvorak.

New Double Feature Offered at Bowdoin

KNUTE ROCKNE FILM HELD OVER ON MET SCREEN

Donald Reagan as George Gipp in "Knute Rockne—All-American," playing another week at the Met.

Football Classic Is Big Hit

"Knute Rockne, All-American," is one of the big screen winners in Met annals. They simply had to hold over this gridiron classic. It will run on through next Wednesday, paying tribute to the greatest football coach of them all and to the fine, manly, winning spirit Rockne bred at Notre Dame.

Pat O'Brien is starred as the great "Rock" in this Warner picture directed by Lloyd Bacon. They couldn't have made a better selection, for O'Brien knows football—he was quarterback for awhile at Marquette; he is husky, understands the Notre Dame spirit, both athletic and social, and has rated Rockne among his heroes ever since he was a kid.

Other notable performances are turned in by Donald Crisp as Fr. Callahan, the university head; by Donald Reagan as the brilliant George Gipp, one of the famous Notre Dame players; by Albert Basserman as the renowned scientist Fr. Nieuland, and by Gale Page as the sweet Mrs. Rockne, who had a big influence on her husband's life and through him on life at South Bend during all the big Rockne days. Playing the immortal Four Horsemen are Nick Lukats, Kane Richmond, William Marshall and William Byrne. There are glimpses of famed coaches, like Stagg, Warner, Spaulding and Howard Jones.

'The Great Dictator' To Open Here Oct. 31

Charlie Chaplin in "The Great Dictator," lauded as the greatest comedy Chaplin has ever produced, will open here at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters, Thursday, Oct. 31.

"The Great Dictator," written, directed and produced by Chaplin is chalking up new record attendances in New York City. There will be daily continuous showings at the popular priced during its engagement at the State and Orpheum. It is the first Chaplin release in [illegible].

Besides Chaplin the cast includes Paulette Goddard, Jack Oakie, Reginald Gardiner, Maurice Moscovitch and Henry Gilbert.

Everyone Brings Up Father Now!

"Life With Father" is having a decided effect on Boston party manners, if the experience of a Boston attorney is to be taken as a criterion.

Recently this gentleman attended an evening at the house of some friends, and the atmosphere was none too lively when suddenly, from the other end of the room, a voice remarkably like that of Clarence Shepard Day's in "Life With Father" boomed out "Oh, GAH-AH-AH!"

The roomful of people, many of whom had been early birds at the comedy at the Civic Repertory Theater, burst out laughing, and presently a kind of game was on, with various guests giving their version of Father's outbursts or Mother's feminine diplomacy.

Louis Calhern, who gives such a sterling performance as the exasperated paterfamilias in "Life With Father," is pursued wherever he goes in Boston with roars of "Hello, Father!" "Good-bye, Father!" and even, "Good-bye, Dr. Lloyd!" or "Vinnie! I'm ho-o-me!"

Parents with children who declare an aversion to oatmeal have become noticeably firmer with their offspring since "Life With Father" turned the clock back to 1880 when father was unquestioned head of the house and flaming youth was no more than a flickering spark.

Nowadays, in place of the accustomed, "Now, my lamb, wouldn't you just taste that nice cereal to please mother!"—startled offspring are hearing emphatic phrases such as, "You've no business not to like oatmeal! It's good! Eat it at once!"

And the results are said to be no less startling.

And when visiting relatives are mentioned in the domestic circle, gentlemen renowned for their hospitality are likely to strike a firm stance and shout, "Why do they have to descend on me like a swarm of locusts? If they want to roam, the damn gypsies, put 'em on the next train and let 'em roam!" So father blusters on.

'Public Deb No. 1' And 'Pier 13' at Olympia

Elsa Maxwell's "Public Deb No. 1," with Brenda Joyce, George Murphy, Charlie Ruggles and Mischa Auer, and "Pier 13," a waterfront yarn with Floyd Nolan and Lynn Bari, are to be seen on Washington St. Olympia screen.

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 23, 1940

Stimson Exposes Willkie Smear

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson deserves the grateful thanks of his fellow Americans.

First because, as a Republican, he held patriotism above party and entered the Roosevelt cabinet to help put national defense above politics.

Second, because he punctured completely Wendell Willkie's effort to frighten the mothers and fathers of America just at the very time when their sons were registering under the conscription law.

On the eve of registration, the Republican nominee hinted that, if called to service, these young men would be risking sickness, disease and death because the Roosevelt Administration had failed to provide adequate army housing.

PLAYING ON FEAR

No, he did NOT make the charge directly. He simply planted the seeds of the idea in the minds of anxious parents. Here are his words:

"This morning I pointed out that, with conscription effective tomorrow, the Army has announced it can house only 400,000 men and that it will take them a year to provide adequate housing for 1,200,000 men.

"I need not dwell upon the necessity of adequate housing for our men in the winter time. You all know it, and you know the possibilities of sickness and influenza."

Just roll those phrases over in your mind—"I need not dwell"—"the possibilities of sickness and influenza." The old courtroom lawyer again planting fear in the public mind.

Secretary Stimson's answer was a devastating reply to a cruel hoax. He stated facts and figures. He showed that adequate housing will be provided for every man called to service. He showed that in the face of great difficulties, the Army has made an amazing record of efficiency in providing barracks and cantonments to meet the expanded needs of the defense program.

BEFORE WILLKIE AWOKE

His statement is too long to be published here in full but it should be read by every American. Summing up, he said:

"Thus far every step of this program has been carried out on time, and barring unexpected and unanticipated difficulties, the whole program will be carried out on time. This program contemplates that the great majority of these projects will be completed BY DECEMBER 15.

"A mere comparison of these dates with the foregoing program for the induction of men for training will show that the schedule of construction is well ahead of the dates for the induction of the men. It is the plan of the War Department to finish construction so far ahead of needs TO AVOID ALL CONTINGENCIES OF BAD WEATHER."

In other words, long before Willkie bothered his head about the problem, the War Department had taken precautions to protect the health of incoming soldiers. And the plan to frighten mothers and fathers went up in smoke.

Last week the neighboring Republican column sobbed salty tears over the alleged efforts to "smear" Candidate Willkie. Then the column concluded by smearing President Roosevelt with the brutal charge that his re-election meant war. There was not a line of evidence to sustain it. On the same day, Willkie was demanding more aid for Great Britain.

"CLEAN CAMPAIGNING"

The succeeding Republican column wept over the fact that while William S. Knudsen was saying machine tools were needed for defense, the United States was releasing machine tools to Russia. And then it quoted a news story saying that those tools which were NEEDED for defense were WITHHELD FROM SHIPMENT. Yet on this fishy evidence, the Communist tag was immediately pinned on Roosevelt.

On the same day in Illinois, Wendell Willkie charged that the Roosevelt Administration was leading the country into State Socialism. Recognize the familiar ring? That is the exact charge in the exact language which Herbert Hoover leveled against Al Smith in 1928. And how Al pinned back Herbert's ears on that one!

Now let's sum up two days of Willkie campaigning. Roosevelt is a Communist and a Socialist. Roosevelt would freeze poor soldiers and drain the nation's lifeblood in war. Every word false—maliciously false.

The Republicans want clean campaigning. Do you smell something?

The Russian angle is the funniest one to date. When Mr. Hoover was in the White House, the United States traded with Russia and American businessmen and engineers were largely responsible for building up Russian industries and Russian dams and hydro-electric projects. To travel in Russia is was merely necessary to have a letter from the late Sen. William E. Borah, Republican chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Of course, in those days, American money was being passed out generously to rebuild impoverished countries all over the globe. Most of it never came back. That was what the Republicans called "sound financing."

When the Democrats tried to appropriate funds to feed starving people in this country, they were accused of "playing politics with human misery." It was good Republican doctrine that money for such purposes should only be spent abroad.

A Roosevelt War Scare? We Hope Not

(Provided by the Republican National Committee)

Well-informed news commentators in Washington predict that Mr. Roosevelt will stir up a dramatic "crisis" in our foreign relations shortly before election day.

Leon Blum
"Unprepared"

They say that the little group of ambitious men around the President believe that it is necessary if he is to succeed in his Third Term grab.

The theorizers say he might suddenly shatter diplomatic ties with Germany. We still have an embassy staff in Berlin, though our Ambassador came home a long time ago.

Or he might suddenly send the United States fleet on some mysterious mission from its base in Hawaii. He has the power to order it to any destination. It would not be surprising to find some of our warships turning up unexpectedly in one of the "trouble areas" of the Far East — say around Singapore—and there is always the possibility of difficulties with Japan.

Behind these possible moves is the idea that the public would be "panicked" into re-electing Roosevelt on the plea that we faced a real emergency, and that he was the one "indispensable man."

That's how some able observers in Washington size up the Roosevelt strategy, anyway.

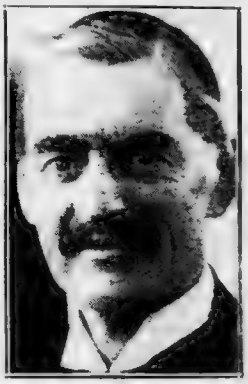
We don't know what's in Mr. Roosevelt's mind, except that he is plainly disturbed by the swelling tide of indignation against his Third Term bid and his failure to build up our defenses after a whole year of war in Europe.

The swing of state after state into the Willkie column shows that the trend of public opinion is definitely away from the Third Term candidate.

The "Smear Willkie" campaign of Wallace and Lehman and Flynn and Michelson, which the President approved by his silence, has disgusted millions of fair-minded Americans and has bounced back on its perpetrators.

The Third Termers have got to try something else and try it fast. That's why Mr. Roosevelt is changing his "defense" trips into "self-defense" trips through certain pivotal states which he must carry to win the election. That's why he has dropped the pretense of "non-political" speeches, and has scheduled five major broadcasts, all admittedly political.

But the Washington talk is that he won't stop with that. It's thought there that he has a "crisis" with some foreign country or group of countries already "on order."



Neville Chamberlain
"Unprepared"

As Americans, we certainly hope that these Washington rumors are wrong.

We find it difficult to conceive of any individual seeking to make political capital out of foreign affairs in these grave times.

But, with no thought of making political capital for himself, Mr. Roosevelt's injudicious meddling in the Far East already has helped to push Japan into the arms of the Axis powers.

There's a concrete example of his boasted ability to handle foreign affairs. To most people with ordinary common sense, it looks like a Grade A blunder.

A few more blunders of that sort, and we may find that we're mixed up in the whole mess, too.

So the American people are understandably uneasy about Mr. Roosevelt's "leadership" in these dangerous days.

They know also that they are unprepared to fight notwithstanding the unprecedented powers they have given Mr. Roosevelt in his seven years of office.

How Carrier Pigeons Carry Messages on Their Backs . . . a U. S. Army Photo

In Flight . . . Wartime

By ROBERT L. GREEN

To have mentioned pigeons within earshot of ranking army signal corps officers at the close of last summer's maneuvers would have probably invited a summary court martial with the likely sentence being the barbecuing of the offender, festooned with blasted army pigeons, over a slow fire.

While the details are depressing the facts were simply that through spectacular failures in the line of duty a group of army pigeons caused much raucous laughter to be directed at the signalmen of the army. What was worse, even the public prints were permitted to let civilians in on the joke.

Even now army officials, though polite, are a little vague and frosty about answering questions as to what part the army pigeon will play in the new streamlined forces.

However, in fairness to the pigeon, whom we discovered to be a couple of pounds of feathered lightning, two champions were located to give a more personable picture of him.

They are reserve officer Major Robert Milne, the army's pigeon expert, and Everett D. Collupy, 18-year-old Melrose racing pigeon enthusiast. The major provided some illuminating background and technical commentary while Everett gave a flying exhibition for camera purposes out at his Melrose loft in addition to some of his personal experiences with his birds.

According to Major Milne, the army has seven pigeon lofts located at widely scattered stations. Chief of these is the Fort Monmouth, N. J., loft where a number of radical experiments with pigeons have been conducted. One of these is the yet unperfected development of night flying pigeons by the major.

The Fort Monmouth loft, said the major, has 600 birds but can accommodate 1400 in an emergency. In the last war at General Pershing's urging a half million pigeons were mobilized into the signal corps for duty overseas. In all probability the army will be forced to raid the lofts of private "fliers" like Everett Collupy, of a much discussed emergency does arise.

THE astounding intimation by President Roosevelt at a recent press conference that Soviet Russia is to be regarded as a "friendly government" to which American machine tools and war materials may be exported has stirred many loyal Americans to protest.

None have protested more effectively or with higher principle and logic than Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen of Catholic University in Washington.

MONSIGNOR SHEEN
Flays Move to Ally U. S. with Russia

The universally respected religious leader was so shocked by the prospect of an alliance with Red Russia which in his belief would be "the beginning of the end of America" that he declared:

"That America should now call Russia a friendly power may be good politics, but it is bad ethics.

"We cannot hold ourselves up as defenders of morality and justice if we ally ourselves with a nation that has been most destructive of both.

"Recognition of this Atheistic, totalitarian government is in itself a repudiation of the highest ideals for which America has stood.

"The only difference between Russia and Germany is that between robbery and larceny. Fundamentally, both believe in suppression of human rights."

How can the United States have a "friendly" association with the despoiler of Finland, Poland, Latvia, Esthonia, Lithuania and Rumania?

Why should the United States provide Russia with the instruments of further despoliation?

Why should we further burden, humiliate and degrade ourselves by taking the hand of this most monstrous of all tyrannies in a travesty on FRIENDSHIP?

Monsignor Sheen is not alone in repudiating any suggestion of American kinship with Communist Russia.

Senator Bennett C. Clark of Missouri has already said what millions of Americans are thinking in commenting:

"I cannot understand the claims to sincerity of Americans who only a few months ago professed to be indignant about the wanton invasion of Finland and who now advocate the appeasement of the Russian Bear—with his claws dripping from patriotic Finnish blood—by turning over to it five million dollars worth of machine tools now imperatively needed for the defense of the United States."

President Roosevelt himself called Russia a "wanton aggressor" against Finland.

Why does he now ask us to join in defending the Russian aggressions which have taken place and those that are certainly impending?

INCOMPETENT DOCTORS and needless surgery disturb Dr. Harold L. Foss, courageous and outspoken head of Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, Pa.

Addressing the American College of Surgeons' Hospital Standardization Conference in Chicago yesterday, Dr. Foss not only called a spade a spade but set off a charge of most potent verbal dynamite.

Hundreds of the surgical operations that are being performed every day in the nation's various hospitals are UNNECESSARY, he said.

Moreover, he continued, for every well-trained surgeon there are probably twenty who lack skill and ability.

Perhaps human life is callously gambled and wasted in a few misguided areas.

But we cannot believe that such a situation exists in Massachusetts and New England.

Here, we have exceptionally good medical schools and reasonably rigid standards for students and practitioners.

Here, too, competition is keener than elsewhere, and the doctor whose patients die in suspiciously large numbers is apt to find himself understandably idle.

The only question that really concerns us as laymen is:

ARE OUR DOCTORS AS WELL PREPARED AS OUR EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES CAN MAKE THEM?

That is a problem for the medical profession itself to solve, and, unless we miss our guess, its leaders will not hesitate to do it.

It would be a serious mistake to have Dr. Foss' criticism misinterpreted as an invitation for the government to step in and attempt to regulate medicine and surgery in a political manner.

Human life is much too valuable to become a plaything for every ambitious public office holder or aspirant.

FOUR YEARS AGO I promised my girl friend I would some time go shopping with her. Today I had to make good. And, boy, am I all in! I would rather run from Times Square to the Battery and back with a bag of potatoes on my back than go shopping again. That is, shopping by the feminine system. I can buy a shirt in three minutes. In a pinch I could buy a shirt in one minute. Today, with my girl friend's help, it took me 30 minutes to buy a shirt and then after it was all wrapped up she said: "Maybe you should have taken that one with the stripes and the lower collar." I can buy a suit in 15 minutes or less, including being measured. Today, with feminine assistance, it took me an hour and a half. At one time we had nearly 200 different kinds of material piled around us. I had to go to tea, too. At the place where I was taken despite my struggles to avoid so doing, they had 60 different kinds of tea. I took English breakfast just the same. And when the waiter appeared carrying 80 kinds of French pastries I said, "Give me a Napoleon." By that time I was too exhausted to do any choosing.

A CONTEMPORARY says John Barrymore is the only film star now who was a star 20 years ago. How about Lionel Barrymore who is a star now and was one 30 years ago? Of the feminine stars, Norma Shearer has been one the longest—17 years. Joan Crawford is not far behind with a 15-year period as a star . . . In Aroostook County, Me., the other day they dug up a potato weighing three pounds and ten ounces. Am no potato expert, but I think many an Idaho potato has weighed more than that . . . Frances Langford, the throaty singer of torch songs who weighed 89 pounds, now weighs 116 pounds. She increased her weight by increasing the amount of cream on her cereal and in her coffee.

HITLER hasn't done much damage to the British Merchant Marine. Napoleon destroyed more than 5000 British merchant ships and even then couldn't win . . . Hitler has had a million troops on the Russian frontiers for months. The Russian army is somewhat handicapped due to the fact Stalin, a couple of years ago, had 37 of his generals executed . . . General Ernst Udet, air ace and star of the film "White Hell of Pitz Palu," is one of the Nazis bombing London . . . In the last war no fighting planes made in the United States ever reached the Western Front . . . "Green Peas," says an eminent man of science, "are apt to make women who eat them frivolous and men flirtatious. Cabbage, on the other hand, tends to make eaters more constant in affairs of the heart." See, lady, didn't I tell you corned beef and cabbage were a fine thing to have for dinner?

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

-:- MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 23—Miss Thompson and I went to lunch with a group of newspaper women to celebrate the publication of Ruby Black's book, "The Biography of Eleanor Roosevelt." I read it through the night before and even I found it interesting, perhaps because after the first part—which of course, I recognize—I began to feel I was being introduced to someone I really did not know.

The Eleanor Roosevelt whom I thought I knew, to me never seems to have any of the attributes that so many kind people must have told Miss Black she has.

I hope their estimate is correct, for in this biography, she sounds essentially like a nice person, though at times I think she is very trying.

In the late afternoon a number of young people came in for tea. One young Boy Scout leader has been in charge of some Scout camps in Washington. He said that for short periods of time he tried to be both father and mother to 300 boys at a time, and he found it very stimulating.

He made an observation many of us, as fathers and mothers, should note—the best discipline from his point of view is administered by the boys themselves to each other and not by their elders.

THE PRESIDENT was busy on his speech for tonight, both in the late afternoon and all evening. Someone suggested at dinner that he might do something which had been asked of him and I was amused at the firmness with which he answered: "I have a government to run and you people seem to think I have nothing to do."

I cannot help feeling grateful that I have never had to make speeches with the sense of responsibility which weighs on conscientious officials when they go out to talk to the people who have elected them.

Yet I think it is a very good thing that this responsibility exists in public officials, for people who have only the responsibility of private citizens can allow themselves to say things which have no foundation in fact and to believe things which they do not bother to verify. That does make articles and speeches much easier to turn out, and besides, it is so much more entertaining!

WE FLEW up to New York City this morning and had a very smooth trip. I have been trying to catch up and am still not caught up on some of the work which accumulated during the week in which I was away.

Now I must go to lunch before attending the first session of the Herald-Tribune forum. We are all particularly happy this year that Mrs. William Brown Meloney, who has always been the real inspiration for this forum, is well enough to be on the platform.

HAGUE WILL ACCUSE REPUBLICANS

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—When Mayor Frank Hague takes the stand, in the current senatorial vote probe of Jersey, he'll turn the tables—making accusations of irregularities in Ocean and Cape May counties, which are Republican. He'll claim there are more people registered than can possibly live there and be eligible to vote . . . BRUCE BARTON: Senator Mead will confront you with a 1930 quote about Mussolini and the abolition of the U. S. Senate . . . QUENTIN REYNOLDS: "Putzi" Hanfstaengel, Hitler's ex-aide who now is interned in Canada, sent a postcard to you asking you to communicate with him immediately. He hasn't been told that you're in London ducking the bombs sent by his former boss . . . AL JOLSON: Ruby Keeler, who walked out of your show, has been offered a role in an opposition musical, "H'Ya, Gentlemen"—but refuses to return to N. Y. . . . DIST. ATTY. FITTS: Burton Turkus, who prosecuted the trials of Murder, Inc., and won convictions, will leave for Hollywood shortly. He'll work unofficially with your staff in the cases concerning the West Coast branch of the murder syndicate

LION FEUCHTWANGER: Neither Franz Werfel nor Heinrich Mann, who were announced as speakers at the dinner given you by the League of American Writers last week at the Commodore, attended that function. They suddenly had become "ill" . . . Their escape from France—as well as the escape of all the noted writers now en route here—was effected by another organization called the Emergency Rescue Committee, which planned to welcome these refugee writers at a dinner at the Commodore on Oct. 31. They were confused by the wireless invitation from the League of American Writers, which they received while aboard ship, and so they accepted. And that's why they became "ill" and instead, will attend the Oct. 31 dinner . . . DARRYL ZANUCK: Elsa Maxwell will make a personal appearance tour in vaudeville houses, supported by a group of young Hollywood actresses . . . DAN FROHMAN: Representatives of your Actors' Fund approached Al Jolson regarding a benefit performance of "Hold On To Your Hats." They informed him that every show usually gives one performance for that fund on Sundays. "A Sunday show would mean $1500 to our Actors' Fund," Jolson was told. Al replied: "The cast works hard all week and needs that day of rest. So take my check instead of our doing an extra show." Jolson's check was for $3000 . . . EQUITY: Mae West is leaving Hollywood shortly for a Broadway play. She's discussing terms with the Shuberts.

ED FLYNN: On the train from Washington Saturday a man—whose wife wore a Willkie button, saw Jim Farley and asked: "What do you think of the election, Jim?" . . . Farley said: "The election is over," but refused to add any explanation . . . WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN: To make the best use of the $30,000,000 appropriated for training youth along industrial defense lines, NYA Administrator Aubrey Williams will enlist experts to handle that job. He's already obtained George Gant, organization director of TVA . . . PUBLISHERS ASSN.: Putnam's is all ready to publish Winston Churchill's collected speeches, to be called "Toil, Sweat, Blood and Tears," but can't get the final word from Britain's Prime Minister, who is occupied with other matters . . . RAJAH OF SARAWAK: Your wife, the Ranee, who announced her departure for Sarawak some weeks ago, only got as far as Vancouver. There she learned that she couldn't travel beyond Hong Kong, because of the strained relations with Japan. And so she's gone to Hollywood to complete her novel . . . Her ex-son-in-law, Bob Gregory, the wrestler, is securing his revenge. Gregory, spurned by his titled in-laws, has made much money as a result of investments in a Hollywood machine similar to Phonovision—and so he now is ignoring the Ranee.

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE: All of Noel Coward's possessions were in his home at Maidstone—the town which has been almost completely demolished. Coward's mother, fortunately, is safe and came here.

IF MITZI GREEN'S premiere at the Mayfair had been scheduled a day earlier, Ranny Weeks and the band would have greeted her appearance with "Happy Birthday to Mi-i-i-t-zi!" . . . As the former ranking child star of the movies makes her Boston nightclub bow tonight, Miss Green will be twenty-some years and a day old.

BY SHEER PERSISTENCE in the most concentrated "plug" ever given a pop song, "Practice Makes Perfect," this column's nominee for the most tiresome ballad of 1940, has reached the hit class . . . This tune was the vehicle used by the broadcasters' private music company to prove that to ASCAP—the songwriter's society with which the airmen are battling—that a song could be "made" by ether plugging.

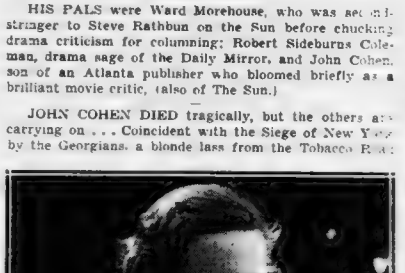
ALL SUSTAINING PROGRAMS featuring orchestras had a "must" order on "Practice Makes Perfect." (They still have, for that matter) . . . The order was that bandleaders should schedule the song at every "appearance" on the air, and that it should be played in the first five minutes of the program . . . The idea in back of routining the number in the early minutes of programs was to preclude a situation which arose hour after hour with the sung-songy chant was first introduced.

UNFORTUNATELY, there is no way to abate the nuisance of either an over-plugged "Practice Makes Perfect" or possible successors—even, I guess, in Noise Abatement Week . . . If the public rushes to the sheet shops to buy copies of the number, (thus hoping to get rid of the annoyance by ringing up sufficient sales to satisfy an ordinary publisher)—naught is accomplished . . . The broadcasters, new to the business of song-plugging derive only encouragement from high sales. The "saturation point" for "Practice Makes Perfect" apparently will be reached only when mass protest brings along a corrective Act of Congress, perhaps as part of the Public Defense program.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Mark Barron, critic and drama editor of the Associated Press, dined with Helen Hayes, and adjourned then to a sitting before the brasher delights of "Panama Hattie" . . . He will "catch" Miss Hayes in "Twelfth Night" tonight, unless the home office summons him back to New York . . . Mark, by the way, is one of a group of youths who came north from Georgia in the early twenties to participate in a successful invasion of the Big City which saw four of the southern kids landing choice drama or movie "desks" in New York papers.

HIS PALS were Ward Morehouse, who was second-stringer to Steve Rathbun on the Sun before chucking drama criticism for columning; Robert Sideburns Coleman, drama sage of the Daily Mirror, and John Cohen, son of an Atlanta publisher who bloomed briefly as a brilliant movie critic, (also of The Sun.)

JOHN COHEN DIED tragically, but the others are carrying on . . . Coincident with the Siege of New York by the Georgians, a blonde lass from the Tobacco Road country made her bid for fame . . . All the Georgia Mafia keeters, you may be sure, did their best for the girl, and it was a good best . . . She was Miriam Hopkins.



PEGGY WOOD
She's Headed Toward Boston in Play

VISITING ALSO in Boston are Billy Wilkerson, publisher of the famed (and feared) Hollywood Reporter—an old Broadwayite . . . Mrs. Wilkerson and her husband saw the Ethel Merman show and were entertained by Buddy De Sylva—with the "Panama Hattie" principals helping out—after the performance . . . News that Peggy Wood is headed this way in "Old Acquaintance," as co-star with Jane Cowl, brings to mind the satisfying appropriateness of the play's title, from a Boston viewpoint . . . Veteran theater-goers recall Miss Wood's grand performance as the girl-star of a potent World War box-office trio . . . Donald Brian and the late Wallace Eddinger were her co-stars then in—remember?—"Buddies."

HOWARD GETS BID FOR STAR CAST

By Louella O. Parsons

Leslie Howard

ABOARD THE CHIEF, Oct. 23 (INS)—Gene Towne and Graham Baker, who startled the natives when they sponsored the Hollywood career of Elsie, the cow, have another surprise up their sleeves but this time it is legitimate. The two RKO writer-producers are planning a picture "How to Meet a Man" which is designed as another "The Women" only more so. Instead of an all-femme cast making monkeys of their boy friends, the gentlemen will be present to take their punishment.

But it is the ambitious cast the boys are trying to line up that has me marveling. They are negotiating with none other than Wendy Hiller and Leslie Howard (both in London) by cable. For the second, but equally important bracket of co-starring roles they want Martha Scott and Melvyn Douglas and Virginia Bruce is also up for one of the important roles. Never let it be said that when Towne and Baker go gunning for an "all-star" cast they let a few hurdles and an occasional war stand in their way.

They tell me another picture is being readied for Betty Grable, the meantime, it will be Virginia who goes into her dance with Cesar in "Tall, Dark and So Forth." MARLENE DIETRICH heads for New Orleans soon to attend the premiere of "Seven Sinners" at the Orpheum Theater Oct. 31. No, New Orleans is not the background of "Seven Sinners" but it is the locale of the new Dietrich picture coming up—"Countess of New Orleans" which Rene Clair will direct. This is the first time I've heard of a premiere jaunt sent out in advance to drum up business for a picture not yet under way, but you'll have to admit Universal has something new there. A complete wardrobe (both social and for her personal appearance) is being whipped up for Marlene to knock our Southern friends cold—as though she wouldn't do exactly that anyway!

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

IT'S FALL in California. There's a bite in the air these days. The sky is pale—almost white even at noon. The light lies low and thick, as though the sun had drained its heat and settled to this amber glow. The air is pungent, spiced with all the fallen fragrance of the rainless year.

Along the shore, the marshes stretch their tapestry of rust and rose, bright coral, faded green and lime, veined with the netted turquoise of the creek.

EVERYWHERE it's still—the gay, bright chatter that held fifty, the days has gone. The buzz and hum, the swish of busy wings, the cheerful gabbling of folks at work—it's ended now. And something of that ending chills your heart.

For you, too, it is fall! You, too, no longer feel the fleetness call of spring, the full, hot pulse of summer. Your fields, that once were full, are empty now. As empty as your dull and tired heart. Perhaps for you the year is almost at an end?

The sunset briefly flares, then turns to ash. The night mist coils along the sodden ground. The air smells of dead leaves and rotting roots. You shiver, thinking of your dying years. You think how gay you were once, long ago; how quick and eager and how curious. As wild as some young hawk with new-shaped wings, who feels the ecstasy of endless skies. And now—

The tide is out. The twilight blurs the winding of the empty creeks. The moon swings clear about a burned-out world. Your heart twists with the memory of the moons you've known. But now you're empty as those tideless creeks.

THEN SUDDENLY, from out the dark there comes a cry. A call that quickens all the earth and sky. Across the moon, the wild geese wing their honking flight toward home! They call and something in you answers that long call.

Something you'd thought
Was ending with the night
Awakes and listens
To that honking flight!
Who did you think
Your heart was empty, sealed—
As drained of feeling
As some worn-out field?
The wild geese call.
And you are answering!
Your flesh may weary
But your spirit wings
Its deathless way
Above the stubble
Of departed things—
Behind you lie the trails
You used to roam,
Ahead there looms
The haven of your home—
And One Who'll say—
"Oh, foolish, frightened child,
Had you forgotten
That you, too, are wild?"

Remember The Tune?

By Sanford Jarrell

AL KAVANAUGH sauntered down Seventh Street past the Mayfair, past a movie house bearing a big electric sign which stated: "Keno tonight. Jackpot $65." He dropped into the Potluck.

"I'll take a bottle of beer," he told Shorty Forbes, the bartender.

"Long time no see," said Shorty.

"I've been in 'Frisco the last two weeks," said Kavanaugh.

"Lucky dog," said the bartender. "I ain't been there in three years."

He turned to wait on another customer. The Potluck was crowded, as it usually was at this hour of the evening. Some girl was singing before the mike on the small platform by the small dance floor, and she had an uncommonly good voice for a place like this. New girl, Kavanaugh figured. She was warbling the fast "Woodpecker Song." She was a young woman about 23 or so, a child-like sort of blonde, dressed simply and becomingly in an evening frock of black velvet. He thought her blonde hair was as natural as her big blue eyes. She was looking steadily at him, which was a little disconcerting.

He could take a five grand beating at Santa Anita without batting an eyelash, but he didn't understand women; didn't try to. Even though he was known about town as a wise guy, slickest promoter on the Coast and an honest one, oddly enough.

The girl finished her song, then whispered a moment to her accompanist. When she resumed her post before the mike, she smiled at Kavanaugh, and there was a twinkle in her eyes. Then she sang, "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes," an old-timer, well, 10 or 12 years old, anyhow. The man flinched, then turned back to his beer. In a few moments she was seated beside him.

"Now comes the big moment," he reflected. "I'm supposed to buy her a six-bit drink. Well, I'm a sucker. I can afford it."

To his surprise, she ordered a cup of coffee, paid for it.

"I thought you were going to order Scotch and soda, and I'd be stuck," he said.

She smiled at him. Hadn't he seen that smile before? Well, probably.

A DIFFERENT GIRL

"Not while working," she said.

"You've got a swell voice, lady, for a dump like this. But I don't like that last song. The tune is okay, but the words are silly."

Something like 'Dancing With Fish in My Face'?"

What do you mean by that crack?"

"Well," she said, "those words would be silly, wouldn't they?"

"I thought I had coined that when I first heard the song years ago it was," he said.

"Great minds ..."

Don't toss any bromides. I hate bromides."

"I know you do, Al."

"How did you know my name was Al?"

"A little bird— "

"Yeah? What little bird?"

"I go places. So do you."

He cogitated on that one. A lot of people knew him, people he didn't know from Adam's off ox. But that sly remark, "Dancing With Fish in My Face." It didn't add up at all. He hadn't used that expression in a decade, fought he ever did use it.

The girl sipped her coffee. He studied her features. He strained the resources of his memory, but he couldn't quite place her.

"Al, I'm going to sing a couple of numbers that I think you'll like. When I come back you can buy me a Scotch highball if you wish, I'm nearly through."

He ordered another bottle of beer, and nearly fell off his chair when the first strains of "Nellie Gray" came to his ears. There she was, this girl, smiling sweetly at him as she sang an old-fashioned tune that isn't heard in a night spot once in a coon's age. And she followed it right up with "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," the Civil War classic.

She returned to his side and he told Shorty to give her a Scotch and soda.

"Thank you, Al," she said.

"Why did you pick out those two bits of medieval history?

"You put on a hard-boiled front, Al. But at heart you're sentimental as they come. I'll bet you dollars to doughnuts that if you saw a dog with a broken leg on the street, just a ditty little black mongrel, you'd take him to a vet and then home. Or if you saw some brute beating a horse, you'd clip him on the chin and get yourself pinched gladly and then order a jury trial and be acquitted, wouldn't you?"

"What the h— are you talking about?"

"Oh, just thinking out loud."

A drunken patron came by with a dollar bill and said he was from New Orleans and wanted her to sing the "Mason Street Blues" and "Louisiana Hayride."

"Please put the dollar in the kitty," she told the drunk, indicating a cigar box on the platform. To Kavanaugh: "The pianist and I split the kitty, we don't draw any pay, except our dinners before we go to work."

AN OLD FRIEND

Puzzled, Kavanaugh didn't wait to finish his beer. But he did toss a twenty-dollar bill in the kitty, and she thanked him with a smile. He wanted to think. That girl had something on him, she must have known him years ago. When he was a kid he had picked up a black mongrel with a broken leg, got him fixed up, and for years Sancho was his most loyal friend.

Sancho, that was what he had named him. And once, when he was a college football player, he had beaten up a big gorilla who was abusing a tired horse, and just as the girl had said, he demanded a jury trial and was acquitted of the assault and battery charge. It had got in the papers back home, of course.

He strolled down Seventh to Olive, and then to the Biltmore, where he had a suite. He took a shower, mixed himself a drink, and sat down in an easy chair trying to place that freckly-faced young singer. She must have come from Louisville, as he had. But he had left there ten years ago, after he had broken up with Margie.

She refused to marry him unless he quit playing poker and betting on the hangtails at Churchill Downs. He tried to reason with her, he rarely lost at cards and broke even at the track, and was making good money besides. She gave him back the ring, and married Tom Anthony on the rebound.

He remembered that Margie used to tease him by singing in her rich contralto voice, "I'm Dancing With Tears in My Eyes." For some reason that song rubbed him the wrong way, the words, that is. He was Victorian in his musical tastes, anyhow. He had been brought up on the ones his father and mother used to sing when he was a small boy.

On more than one occasion he had told Margie he could write words just as silly and to prove it he did, under the title, "I'm Dancing With Fish in My Face." And Margie used to sing it in her fine contralto—wait a minute, that youngster in the Potluck had a contralto voice, too. He had it down pat now.

AL REMEMBERS

He remembered Margie's kid sister, Betty, a long-legged girl in pigtails who was always hanging about when he didn't want her around. He hadn't paid much attention to her then, except that she was Private Nuisance No. 1 to him.

That was why her face was so vaguely familiar. She didn't look like Margie, who was a brunette. And here she was, singing in a Seventh st. dump. Probably came out to make Hollywood sit up and take notice and was too proud to go back to Louisville to admit that Warner Brothers or R-K-O wouldn't give her a tumble. Well, he'd take care of that. He had some drag in Hollywood, and with a little training she might go places.

The next evening found him at the Potluck again, but on the platform a big-bosomed lady in her thirties, dressed like a sub-deb at the Junior Prom, was lisping a Hit Parade number.

"Where's the girl who was here last night?" he asked Shorty.

"Don't know, Al," he said. "Nice kid, too. Wouldn't stand no fresh stuff. All I know is she got her pay from the boss last night and said she was going to 'Frisco."

Al Kavanaugh was weary. For five nights he had been making the rounds, all the way from such swell spots as the Top of the Mark to cheap bars on Eddy St., hitting eight or ten or more a night. Not a trace of Betty. It was only 10 o'clock; he had four hours to go. He figured he might as well give O'Farrell St. a twirl, hitting every place between Powell and Fillmore if he could stay sober that long.

"How did you know my name was Al?"

He turned into a place called the Hot-Cha along about midnight. It was a noisy, garish joint. In one corner, on a small platform, a heavy-set woman was fingering the piano keys. The familiar mike was there, a necessary adornment so that a singer's voice could be lifted above the loud confusion of such a spot. Well, Kavanaugh would wait and see who the songbird was.

He wasn't paying much attention to the surroundings, didn't even heed the B-girl on the next stool, who was trying by devious and (to her) artistic ways to strike up a conversation. And then came the contralto voice he knew so well, and the tune was, "I'm Dancing With Tears in My Eyes."

It was Betty, all right, and she was singing to him. She was singing to no one else, and now he knew he loved that tune, loved the silly words, loved the silly words of all the modern songs. And that wasn't all he loved . . . Betty?

And later, over hot dogs and coffee at a little spot a block or two away, she said:

"You thought I used to hang around the living room when you wanted to be alone with Margie just because I was an ornery brat, didn't you?"

Kavanaugh admitted that he did.

"You know differently now, don't you, Al? Even a 10-year-old child can fall in love, can't she?"

"And stay that way, Betty?"

"Yes," said Betty, mist in her lovely blue eyes, "yes, and stay that way."

The Boston Bears; or, How to Start a College

THE TEXT OF THIS LITTLE OPUS is "How to found a college."

Well then, the professional football Bears, or Fairbanks University as they are known to the downtown alumni, are a set of robust, whiskery-chinned adults just out of their college caps and gowns who are taking post-graduate work on the hard-scrabble, pebbly stretches of the Fenway Stadium. The Founder, who is Mr. Sheldon Fairbanks of Boston, is president, dean and registrar of the institution, and a man franker than most college heads.

AUSTEN LAKE

For, instead of paying off his athletes in the stadium peanut concessions and the campus laundry monopolies, he gives his scholars a stipulated wage for their honest energies. All he demands is that each student give his utmost in blood, skin and bones to dear-old-Fairbanks or get bounced off the college payroll. "Fair enough for Fairbanks," is the varsity yell!

Now then! Prexy Fairbanks, a very cordial gent to meet over a biscuit and a bowl, as yet has no ivy-mantled halls, no campus gates engraved with Latin mottoes, no elm-shaded lawns, no non-athletic lads in corduroy britches or perky co-eds in kilts and ankle socks. There is no chapel bell to toll the hours, no bearded patriarchs in mortar-board caps, no big concrete bowl, no athletic scholarships and no night-before-the-big-business whoop-ups. All, at the moment, that Mr. Fairbanks has is a football team composed of copperbottom, steel-riveted men who chew fulminating caps and spit fireworks, to each of whom he pays $100 a week and charges the public from 85 cents to $2.20 per Sunday peek.

SO THIS MORNING EDDIE CASEY, who is the one-man Fairbanks faculty and an old Harvard Red, whistled his prize herd of ex-college bulls to heel and sent them through their figures. Eddie didn't follow them hollering advice. He just strolled around in a battered hat and a tweed suit without bothering to teach any primary-grade lessons on how to block and tackle or those myriad AB-abs which he had taught when he ting with immature youth at Cambridge. He just showed his Bears to their proper positions and let them buzz away like a Christmas toy. Casey put it squarely up to them.

The athletes who come to Fairbanks U., or as it is sometimes called "Subway Tech," are supposed to be fully certified in such details. Thus, if they flunk Casey's course, the professor merely "busts" the deliquent out of college at the next faculty meeting and goes out to the hayfields, mine heads or waterfront and enrolls a substitute, or imports one ready-made from the best college teams of the country. That's pretty easy to do because graduate athletes, unable to put their academic training to practical use in the present job-market and pinched for cash, are glad to employ their intensive, college bred, athletic skill where they can find it outside their formal culture. It makes for mutual benefit, too, because Casey, has no obligation to alumni, faculty, or parents and no Dean's list to cut down of his lineup on the eve of the big, traditional game with Podunk State.

THAT'S THE PICTURE! Here's the plot!

What Prexy Fairbanks and Professor Casey are doing with their Boston Bears is merely the reverse of what many a college foundation has done over the years. For, where the colleges have first established an eye-filling campus with architectural halls and period-brick dormitories before recruiting a husky, handpicked football team for free advertising purposes, Mr. Fairbanks has approached the problem from the other end. He has founded a football team first . . . to heck with the close-cropped, horticultural lawns, colonial-style libraries, student unions and a mellow chapel bell. He's got the best part of a university now!

Still, in my acquaintance with Mr. Fairbanks at Suffolk Downs and the Boston Garden, I have found him no lickpenny, faint-hearted and halfway gent. So, if he wishes to go whole-hog into the college business, I know where he can pick up a second hand, complete college layout, including ivy, antiquity and tradition, at a ridiculous bargain.

Because at Waterville, Me., Colby College, one of our elder, small institutions, is fixing to move to a brand-new dream location in the heart of a sylvan Eden called Mayflower Hill. It is vacating its old, smoke-smudged site on the edge of the B. & M.'s freight tracks, where it has lived for years in a soot fog. Colby is sick of chewing soot.

Soooooo! All Prexy Fairbanks has to do now is to move his Bears up to Waterville (that's out as a pay-

'HARMON BEST I'VE SEEN,' SAYS REAGAN, PENN FOE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23 (AP)—Who's afraid of the big, bad Wolverine? Not Francis Xavier Reagan, Penn's practical pigskinner and chief hope against mighty Michigan Saturday.

In the jungle symbolism of college football, Frank already has led the rout of Maryland's terrapin, Yale's bulldog and Princeton's tiger.

Now he's aiming for the Wolverines of Ann Arbor and their pack leader, Tom Harmon, only football in the nation to outscore Reagan this season.

If Frank outshines Tom in the Penn-Michigan battle, he may begin to think himself as All-America material, he said.

Meanwhile, although he outgained Harmon in last year's game, 356 yards to 294, Penn's stellar halfback will continue to regard his rival as "the greatest back I have ever seen."

LIVES IN PRIEST'S HOUSE

Reagan is such a normal young American of 21 that it would be difficult to spot him on the campus as University of Pennsylvania's most prominent undergraduate.

He looks like his name and lives like it, dwelling in the priest's house of St. Bede's campus chapel and taking an active part in the Catholic students' organization.

Restrained and bashful, he acknowledges "extreme nervousness" before each game and is "even more nervous" in the presence of interviewers. The three victims of his 61 points this season haven't noticed it, perhaps because Frank "always calms down once the game is under way."

Frank Reagan

His answers to questioners are like a recitation of the oath of allegiance to the flag: Coach George Munger is "one of the nicest fellows you'd ever want to meet; he really knows football." Capt. Ray Frick, center, and other blockers give me the best support a fellow could have." His chief interest off the gridiron is "following athletics." Favorite dish, "Home made meat loaf." And so on.

Looking far slighter than his 5-foot-10 height and 185 pound bulk, Reagan might be mistaken for a freshman in his "postage stamp" blue cap and open gabardine suit. But the cap is the badge of Sphinx,

Harmon Snubs Pro Game

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 23 (INS)—When Tom Harmon graduates from the University of Michigan, next June, his active participation in football will be over, the All-America halfback said today in answering questions as to whether he would consider an offer to play professional football.

"I have no intentions of playing pro football regardless of any offers," Harmon said, adding that he hoped to secure a job in radio.

Pro Sports Eclipsing Collegiate

By FRANK FENWAY

At the risk of offending some of our veddy best people it must be reported that a picture of poor old Neville Chamberlain and his umbrella would serve as a fitting trade mark for amateur athletics in this country.

Helmed by a lot of old goats who would run out of wind during a fast game of chess, amateur athletics are dying, not on their feet but their tails, because the public is being handed junk in the line of entertainment.

Colleges whose football teams used to send packed stadiums into hysterics of a Saturday now put scattered hundreds to sleep with humdrum exhibitions while athletic directors make stuffy speeches about giving the game back to the boys.

GAME NOT AT FAULT

Meanwhile, smart promoters are luring thousands to their parks with sparkling football played by rugged and capable men provided with a brilliant and crowd pleasing offense.

Amateur tennis matches which once meant must assignments for the top sports writer and the society editor are now covered by telephone and are watched by a few die-hards who think the defeat of Cornwallis was shameful.

And to prove the game is not at fault a red-headed swing addict named Don Budge and old Bill Tilden can pack indoor arenas under the management of professional promoters who know how to entertain a public.

The only sport where the amateurs have out-boxofficed the professionals is boxing, and the reason for that is ABC stuff. Professional boxing was handed a nine count by a parcel of greedy gents who hadn't the brains to realize that they could make more money honestly than by sharp dealings.

Recently, under shrewd Mike Jacobs, the professional boxing situation has taken a turn for the better and with honest performers giving the customers dollar for dollar even this appears due to retain its former prestige.

NEED PROMOTERS

The human thing to do is say, "Well, so what? If the pros are giving you a better show for the dough why waste time bemoaning the passing of the amateurs?"

Well there's an answer for that one. The professionals, for all their competence, can't fire a crowd with the enthusiasm that is inspired by one athletic group that is out there battling for the sheer love of the game, and it seems a crime that stupid handling of this type of sport is resulting in a death rattle.

The answer to what can be done about it is not a simple one. The ideal situation would seem to call for professional promoters at the helm of amateur sports.

Hey! Can any of you Ivy League colleges find a spot for Mike Jacobs?

Freshman Best Harvard Netman

Al Everts, of Newton, won the Harvard fall tennis tournament with a 6—3, 6—4, win over Soph Bart Harvey.

Everts, a freshman, is seeded No. 3 in the nation among the juniors. He was top seeded in the Harvard tournament and is the second freshman in history to cop the University title.

Injuries Hit Wildcats Hard

DURHAM, N. H., Oct. 23—Somewhat bruised and battered after three straight major triumphs, the University of New Hampshire Wildcats will not be at full strength when they tangle with the University of Vermont Saturday.

Winslow McDonald and Al Lamont, a pair of regulars were hurt in the Springfield game and may not be able to face the Catamounts.

Despite these losses, Wildcat followers feel that with Stacey Clark as a real threat at all times, New Hampshire will come up with its fourth straight victory.

PREFERS BASEBALL

Frank is a Philadelphia boy, one of eight children, who got his first football bumps on the pavements of Germantown. His father, a factory foreman, watched him play football for the first time last Saturday against Princeton.

Seeing his son get a broken leg in a high school game had kept him away for four years, but he's going to Ann Arbor with the rest of the family to see "my boy" pitted against the great Harmon.

Despite his prowess as a punter, a runner and a line plunger, his punts have averaged 42 yards from the line of scrimmage this fall—Frank prefers baseball to football and catching to pitching, his assignment as captain of Penn's 1941 nine.

He has had several offers to join major league clubs, including a $7500 bid last year from the New York Yankees but turned all aside at least until he finishes college.

A "C Plus" student, he is majoring in insurance and sociology courses and expects eventually to be an insurance salesman. He's tried it during summer vacation and likes it.

Europe to Hear Penn-Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 23 (INS)—Europe—war or no war—still is interested in the great American sport of football.

Fred Delano, public relations man at the University of Michigan, said today that the game with Lansdowne Valley this Saturday at Ann Arbor would be broadcast by short wave to Europe through the facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Everett Favored To Beat Medford

According to the law of averages, this is the week Medford should win. But look at what they are up against—Everett, undefeated but tied once, and it is very doubtful if Ray Edgerly, who was injured just before the half ended last week against Lynn English, will be able to play . . . Without this sparkplug in the lineup the outlook isn't any too bright.

The annual Lynn clash on Thanksgiving Day has been the big event for North Shore fans to look forward to year in and year out but the battle which is sure to take place on it is the Peabody vs. Lynn Classical fray a week from Friday night . . . At present, both teams are undefeated and it is expected that they will stack up against each other this way . . . The game will be played under lights at Leo Buckley Stadium.

Amesbury High School has been showing the way for the "little" North Shore elevens, replacing Ipswich High of last year . . . It pulled one of the biggest surprises of the schoolboy season a couple of weeks ago blanking Saugus High, 6 to 0 . . . And last week, were just nosed out, 7 to 6, by Beverly after hanging up four consecutive wins.

Coach Nick Morris has been doing a whale of a job pulling Beverly High out of the lowest depths Beverly has been in for years . . . Forced to string along with about 30 players, since practically two-thirds dropped off at the beginning of the season, Nick has done remarkably well and is being acclaimed as "the" coach of the year out along the North Shore.

The only setback suffered was the lone touchdown win two weeks ago by Peabody high . . . The Tanners also were the first and only to cross their goal line . . . Before the Beverly-Peabody contest, rival coaches, Morris and Bill Seeglitz had somewhat of a battle as to the length of periods their teams would play . . . While the two were having it out, some 8000 fans were furious since the conflab in the middle of the field had already held the game up some 15 minutes . . .

Morris wanted to play seven minute quarters and then eight but Seeglitz wanted to make it ten. After the smoke had cleared, Nick decided on five ten . . . Bill was so burned up after the game that he went floundering through the records and finally found a rule whereby if two coaches could not agree, the teams would have to play 15 minute quarters . . .

* * *

One can go a long way to see any better end play than Cliff Canning and Norman Papagelis performed for Lynn Classical in their tussle with Leominster . . . In the first period of that conflict when the North Shore lads knocked the upstaters out of the undefeated class, they were lost a bit but after that, they were charging quickly, breaking through and gumming up the blocking of the Leominster backs with ease, especially Roger Robichaud, the swift moving back . . . Salem high may be taking its lickings this year but just wait until next season . . . Bill Broderick has practically the whole team back with the exception of Don Williams, about the best punter in schoolboy circles today . . . This is the worst season that Broderick has had since he first came back in the early '29's . . .

Home Folks See Berger Ride Winner

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 23 (AP)—Although Maurice Berger has been one of the leading riders on eastern tracks for several years, it wasn't until yesterday that he showed the home folks at Louisville just how well he can ride.

He gained his first victory at Churchill Downs when he drove Mrs. W. E. Haughton's Bob's Boys, a $5.60 for $2 favorite, home a nose ahead of W. W. Stone's Bino. Although Bob's Boys ran the mile in the fine time of 1:38, he just got up to win in the last stride.

Navy Captain To Face Yale

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 23 (INS)—Richard F. (Dick) Foster, captain and left end of the Navy football team, will be in the starting lineup against Yale in New Haven Saturday, Maj. Swede Larson, head coach of the Tars, said today.

Because of ankle injury, Foster was unable to participate in any of the four previous games this season. And even though he may start against Yale his job as one of the wings is in serious jeopardy, owing to the large number of ends who have come to the front, including Willie Maxon, Bob Montgomery, Bob Froude and others.

Weight Penalties Early at Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 23 (AP)—Horsemen who enter thoroughbreds in the $50,000 Widener Handicap at Hialeah won't have to worry about weight penalties after the Hialeah meeting starts. Revised conditions call for the weights to be announced Jan. 3, five days before the meeting starts. The only penalty is an added three pounds for winners of $15,000 after the announcement of weights. Entries for the Wideneer, to be run March 1, close Nov. 18.

Behind Goal Posts

Dartmouth-Yale games have been thrillers despite Yale winning 15 and tying three out of the first eighteen of the series which goes back to '81 . . . the Green finally crashed through, 14-6, in '35, sparked by short-sleeved Pop-Eye Kay who chugged into pay dirt after intercepting an Eli pass in midfield . . . in '29 Al Marsters was injured after putting the Green ahead, 12-10, and in the last minutes Al's sub hurled a wobbly pass straight into the arms of the Blue's speedster, Hoot Ellis, who flew 80 yards to score . . . in '31 the final was 33-33 in the screwiest game on record . . . Dartmouth was behind, 53-10, in the third quarter but Wild Bill McCall and Bill Morton led the Green to a tie.

N. U. COACH PRAISES GRID AIDES

Coach Jimmy Dunn took time out from his Northeastern preparations this morning to pay tribute to his three assistant coaches, who have been so helpful in getting the Huskies back on the win path.

"Much of the glory for our victory over Bates should go to Harold Kopp and Herb Gallagher," said Dunn, "because they did such a scouting job. We were able to set up our defense in just the right way to stop Bates.

"The tackle play of Ed Jensen also reflects to the credit of Kopp. Jensen has developed very rapidly this year and promises to be one of our best line performers. The whole line, in fact, has done excellent work."

Dunn has been very pleased with the [illegible] but he salutes Johnny Wood as the cause.

"When we shifted Tubbs from blocking back to fullback, we realized that we would have to do a lot of extra work with him," explained Dunn. "Wood has worked overtime in getting Ronnie acquainted with the new position and the results have been gratifying."

Tubbs has been the backbone of the Northeastern attack in the past three games and his spinning and faking have been excellent. His mental attitude toward the game has helped him considerably this year and he is winding up his collegiate period in a real blaze of glory.

BATES READY FOR MAINE

LEWISTON, Me., (Oct. [illegible]) — Coach Mansfield was in good physical shape and with everybody ready to go, past games have been forgotten as Bates completes [illegible] for the first Maine State league game of the year with the University of Maine at Orono Saturday.

Coach Mansfield was a trifle disappointed over the Bobcats loss to Northeastern last Saturday but he felt it was due in some measure to the fact that his charges were looking [illegible] and were not mentally fit for the fray.

The Lewiston mentor, though, was highly pleased with the running of Manny [illegible] who [illegible] the best backfield prospect that Bates has had in some years [illegible] has a hunch that this youngster may be the key to the Bobcats' hopes in this coming series.

Walker has been [illegible] during drills but was rewarded the necessary experience [illegible] will alternate with Captain Mike Buccigross at fullback.

Ed Parker, 134-Pound N. U. Soph, Title Threat if He Can Keep Warm

Now that Northeastern's football team has won two straight football games, the gridiron sport is getting all the attention at the Back Bay institution. Meanwhile the cross country team is quietly compiling one of its best recordsin history.

The Husky harriers hit a new high against Bates last week when their first five finishers roared across the line under a 17-second blanket. Never before has the college had a quintet of runners who could stay that close together over a four-mile course.

Just how well the Huskies will do in the New Englands depends a good deal upon the weather, because the No. 1 man on Jerry Tatton's squad, Ed Parker of Arlington, doesn't like the cold.

If the resourceful Tatton can rig up some sort of heating device to keep Parker comfortable, the Arlington boy will be a real threat for the individual crown.

THE CARROLL TWINS

Parker won the University of Connecticut meet [illegible] a quintet of star Nutmeggers which included Luciano Bonetti, the Connecticut A.A.U. [illegible] champion.

He [illegible] a [illegible] battle with Pete McLaughlin, former W[illegible] Academy star [illegible] Parker [illegible] with [illegible] Captain of Fordham's [illegible] Mountie [illegible]

[illegible] and Bill Carroll, [illegible] of Bob [illegible] Twins [illegible] of Boston.

Parker [illegible] Coach Pat [illegible] for the [illegible] Bob [illegible] Charlie Bowditch [illegible] Newton's Bill [illegible]

[illegible] Coach [illegible] are [illegible] interested in cross country because they [illegible] both track [illegible] and [illegible] for [illegible] fame.

But [illegible] the head [illegible] last summer when he beat Harlan Weeks, of the B.A.A. in the fastest cross-country mile in this section. He [illegible] was will run two 600 or 1000 yard [illegible] with Bill taking care of the mile event in dual meets.

ONLY ONE SENIOR

But to get back to cross country, even the lugubrious Tatton must admit that the Husky outlook is extremely bright. Carpenter, Mike Prohodsky of Mansfield, Art Annis of Marblehead, and John Campbell of Atlantic, are all juniors.

The only senior on the squad is Capt. Sam Drevitch of Roxbury, who joins with Parker, Carpenter, Prohodsky, and Doc as Northeastern's chief hopes in the coming New Englands.

First, however, the Huskies must complete their dual meet season. They battle the very strong Rhode Island State team on Saturday at Franklin Park, and Bill Carroll would feel more at home if he could have Bob along.

The presence of the Nichols brothers on the Rhode Island team is causing him the anxiety, because Lester Nichols was fourth in the New Englands last year and Bob Nichols won the freshman race

In a co-feature, "Man Mountain" Dean will have Lord Albert Mills of England as an opponent.

Casey and Dean are both shooting for matches with the Angel who became world's champion when he defeated Casey.

The Angel has always been willing to take on all-comers, and will accommodate Casey and Dean if they display sufficient class.

In the semi-final, rough Rudy Dusek will collide with Charley Strack.

Night Chase, close up and saving ground early and on the final turns was steered to the outside for the drive and responded to vigorous handling to get up in time. A foul was claimed but disallowed. Whisper outdueled Good Omen the first half mile, drew off to a safe lead in the eighth out but faltered when the first two came and just did outlast Epical. The latter worked him way up, came with a rush on the inside and was wearing the leaders down at the end. Good Omen had high speed to the final eighth and tired. Singing Slave gained at the close. Sky Cloud had good early speed. Hittie lacked speed and showed a dull effort.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

GENE DRISCOLL, chairman of the boxing committee of the New England A. A. U., has written to Roy E. Davis of Chicago, chairman of the national committee, suggesting that winners in the All-America diamond belt championships automatically qualify for the A. A. U. boxing finals . . . Gene believes that any boxer who shows enough class to win in the All-America contests is entitled to compete in the A. A. U. finals without being obliged to take part in any trial matches.

GENE DRISCOLL

The opening gun in the All-America tournament will be fired at the Arena on Nov. 11 . . . There will be four sets of trial contests, the New England finals, Eastern finals and grand national finals . . . Boston and New England fans should witness the greatest amateur boxing tournament ever staged here.

Matchmaker Rip Valenti of the Goodwin A. C. is trying to sign Billy Conn and Al McCoy for a 15-round bout at the Garden but is meeting with opposition from the Pittsburgh boxer . . . If it had not been for low punching, Conn would not have been able to have defeated McCoy in their recent tussle.

A reader who signs himself, "A Billy Conn Fan" takes exception to my statements in regard to the Conn-McCoy bout . . . The letter in part follows:

"It seems to me that ever since the McCoy-Conn fight at the Garden you have been knocking Conn. I don't think you watched the fight very closely when you say that McCoy landed the best punch of the bout in the third round. What about the punches McCoy took from the seventh through the tenth round? You must have been out having a beer during those rounds.

(Mr. Boston does not drink beer. He prefers champagne when he can get it.—Editor's Note.)

"Conn to my knowledge can take McCoy at any time, and if the bout had been a 15-round affair last week McCoy would have gone out like a light. In the future why don't you give some credit to a good men instead of panning him?"

The letter writer did not deny Conn punched low four times during the bout, or that McCoy won the second, third and fourth rounds. We stand on our statement that if the bout had taken place in New York where a boxer loses a round in which he scores a low blow that McCoy would have won.

We shall not consider what would have happened if it had been a 15 instead of a ten-round bout. Last Friday Conn and McCoy were battling over the ten-round route.

The Detroit Tigers have not asked anyone to rate them on a 10 or a 14 games series with the Reds. They got their chance for World Series fame in a seven-games series and lost.

All-America Champion Makes Good

REMEMBER GEORGE MARTIN OF the South End who once won the 147-pound championship in the All-America championships in this city? Martin will clash with Pedro Montanez of Puerto Rico in a ten-round bout at the Broadway Arena, New York, on Oct. 29. Martin won the right to meet the heavy hitting Montanez when he defeated Jerry Florello recently. Martin won six out of the eight rounds in his tussle with Florello.

Martin scaled 146½ pounds as he disposed of Florello and as a result will not experience any difficulty in making the required poundage for the welterweight class.

Joe Louis will risk his world's heavyweight championship against Lou Nova in a bout that is planned for Los Angeles . . . Nova was headed for a high spot in the boxing game until he was knocked out by fat Tony Galento . . . Galento is reported to have resumed training behind his Newark bar and will soon stage another come back.

Items From My Private Notebook

THE DATE FOR the Eddie Mack testimonial dinner at the Copley Plaza has been moved forward to Saturday evening, Nov. 9 . . . The top sergeant protested when he learned the dinner was going to be held on Nov. 13 . . . He says he is having enough trouble picking winners at Rockingham Park without his friends holding his dinner on the thirteenth of next month.

Jacopobelle looked like a real good thing winning the final race at Rockingham yesterday . . . Jacopobelle went out front early in the race and was never headed . . . It was another victory for the form players . . . Perlette, an odds-on favorite and Dave Wilson's best bet, came with a rush from the head of the stretch to win easily . . . Marjorie S., paying $18.80 for $2, gave some joy to the long shot players . . . The bettors overlooked Marion Collins who came in to win for a payoff of $10.20.

The weather warmed up at Rockingham Park yesterday, and things were more comfortable for racegoers . . . Especially for those persons who came up with their share of winners.

Fenelon Hurt, Out of Special At Pimlico

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (INS)—An injury today took the Belair stud's Fenelon, generally rated the champion 3-year-old of the year, out of the Pimlico special to be run Nov. 1.

William Woodward, the owner, ordered Fenelon retired for the season when the colt failed to respond to training following an injury suffered in the running of the New York Handicap. Woodward felt it was better to retire Fenelon rather than run an unfit horse in the race.

Fenelon's retirement leaves Hash, the Greentree stable enty, as chief contender against Challedon.

Commerce Meets Jamaica at Hive

Jamaica Plain and Commerce, both losers of their first three games, will be out for their first win of the season today as they meet each other in the opening game of the National League daily twinbill. In the other half of the program, South Boston's powerful but hospitalized eleven meets thrice-beaten Charlestown.

GRIMES SAYS:

SOX HEADED FOR TROUBLE

After dropping decisions to Scranton and St. Mary's of Texas, Head Coach Cleo O'Donnell will see to it that St. Anselm's is in a real fighting mood for Boston College next Saturday . . . And no one realizes that fact more than Frank Leahy, boss of the Eagles.

The same second guessers who are still claiming that Charlie Sprayer should have called for a field goal in the Army game would be yelling their heads off if a placement had been tried and missed . . . They'd be describing in great detail the successful aerials that Charlie had executed during the fourth period march . . . Lo, the poor field general!

Johnny Koslowski, the former Manchester High School and Gov. Dummer Academy star, who, due to a head injury, wasn't allowed to play football this fall until Dartmouth had lost to Franklin Marshall and Columbia, is working his way through college . . . Last summer he worked on a playground at Manchester-by-the-Sea from 6 a. m. to 7 a. m. . . . Then he hustled over to a local market, where he labored until 1 o'clock . . . During the afternoons he mowed lawns, and in the evenings he gave instructions in auto driving. . .

Due to the fact that the Louisville baseball fans labor under the impression that their city should be in a major league, and therefore will not lay it on the line to see youngsters play, Tom Yawkey is headed for box office trouble, if too many kids are assigned to his American Ass'n farm . . . Hank Mazur, the Lowell boy who quit Boston College to enter West Point, is one of the most popular cadets in the entire corps.

Tom Spry, who was Peddie School's outstanding all-round athlete during the "Gay 90's," is topping all smelt fishermen at Scituate harbor . . . And now that we're on the South Shore, let's see what's going on . . . Frank McNamara is winding up his 28th season as professional at the Cohasset Golf Club . . . Jack Leary is resting up during the week so as to be in shape to "take" Long John and Bill Slattery and Eddie Lynch over the week-end at the Scituate Country Club—BILL GRIMES.

B. C. Fears Letdown

The Boston College Eagle isn't taking the St. Anselm Hawk lightly—not by the longest of shots. If you doubt that statement you might hike out to Chestnut Hill.

This Boston College team has come a long way. Its victories over Tulane and Temple, its pummelings of Centre and Idaho were wrought only by the hardest kind of work. The Leahys don't intend to have all that effort undone by a thrice defeated St. Anselm team—or by a mediocre Manhattan eleven or by a fighting Boston University Terrier, which opponents the Eagles meet before the all important Nov. 16th clash with Georgetown at Fenway Park.

Now high up in the national collegiate grid standing, owner of the biggest point total (180) of any major college eleven in the country and recognized as potential Bowl timber, the senior laden Boston College squad has much to lose and very little to gain in its clashes with St. Anselm, Manhattan and Boston University. A letdown at this stage of the game could easily result in an upset by any one of the three opponents which will be met on the next three Saturdays.

If the zip and drive which Boston College is showing in its daily workouts means anything, the Leahy Eagles won't be caught napping.

Today will mark the second time since he arrived at the Heights that Bob Jauron will run at the fullback position. With Teddy Williams and Carl Lucas, Jauron was involved in a three-way position shuffle which Head Coach Leahy hopes will add greater strength to an already powerful organization.

At the bucking back slot Jauron, a rugged 190-pound junior from Nashua, N. H., will be able to capitalize on his tremendous speed and power. At fullback Bob won't be bothered with the multiple running, passing and kicking duties which go with the left halfback post which he formerly held. The change should work wonders with a lad who potentially is one of the greatest backs to ever matriculate at the Heights.

Williams, a schoolboy sensation when he carried the colors of Gloucester High School back in 1936, is now a left halfback. Lucas, originally a right halfback, is back at his old job after a month of fullbacking duties.

At left halfback Williams competed with Frank "Monk" Masnicki and Lou Montgomery but now competes with Charlie O'Rourke and Harry Connolly. If Teddy is as good at the art of triple threatings as he was back in high school, Connolly will have to watch out.

GREEN'S WEAK PASS DEFENSE HELPS HARVARD OUTLOOK

Harvard's varsity football squad, still seeking its first major game victory of the season, was confident today it would attain that objective Saturday after looking at Dartmouth's plays in scrimmage.

Movies of the Yale-Dartmouth game showed how vulnerable the Green was to aerials, and as the Crimson has a strong overhead game, the squad was very optimistic over its chances when it tangles with the Wah-Who-Wahs Saturday in the Stadium.

The return of Don McNicol to active service for the first time since the Amherst contest adds to the probability of such a Harvard plan of offense. McNicol is the best passer on the Harvard team and will operate alternately with Charley Sprayer at tailback.

Fran Lee and Mel Gordon are the two wingbacks on the Crimson squad, but as a result of his excellent running in yesterday's scrimmage, Gordie Lyle has been promoted to the varsity squad.

SEVERAL CARRY BRUISES

Lyle was hurt before the season began last year and only saw limited action for the cubs last season. He weighs 175 pounds and has come along fast this fall as a consistent ground gainer and has pleased the coaches with his fierce blocking and tackling. He may not play against Dartmouth this weekend, but before the season is over, the chances are that he will be sharing the wingback duties with Fran Lee.

Although no player on the Harvard team is on the doctor's list as unable to face the Indians, there are several Cantabs who were held out of yesterday's heavy contact work because they are still suffering from bruises received in the Army fray. Loren MacKinney, Harvard's best end, Don McNicol, Pete Elser, Lone Star Dietz, and Lee are those who will be worked lightly this week.

GREEN CONFIDENT

Dartmouth and Harvard will play their 47th contest this week. The game has always been one of the leading local attractions of the Hub grid season. Harvard scouts say that Dartmouth is potentially a very good football team, but has been suffering from soph mistakes most of the season. It is about time that the Indians began to roll and that may be against Harvard. The Dartmouth cards for six years have held the Harvard ace trump card, and Dick Harlow is anxious to end the Indians' string of six straight.

Word from the Hanover hills says that the Big Green is anything but discouraged over their prospects of beating Harvard. One player said as he left the Yale game:

"Any way we have Harvard on our schedule and we can always beat them."

Crusaders Bank On Sophomores

WORCESTER, Oct. 23 (INS)—Sophomores were in the majority today on the Holy Cross football squad as the Crusaders prepared for an invasion of Providence, R. I., Saturday to meet Brown.

Although Frank Saba, first string quarterback, had rejoined the squad, Sophomore Frank Calabrese directed the offensive in scrimmage.

Bears' Next Foe Holds Only Win Over Leaders

Close followers of the American League football fortunes were amazed at the sudden tailspin of the highly touted Milwaukee Chiefs last Sunday when they fell before the New York Yankees 39 to 7.

What happened to the Chiefs? This question was finally answered this morning when Earle Bock, advance man for Milwaukee, popped into town in preparation for the Chiefs' coming clash with the Bears at Fenway Park Sunday.

The solution is easy, chirped Bock:

"After we played the Columbus Bulls last Sunday," said Bock, "we did not know whether we were going on to New York or not, as we were told that the Yankees were disbanding.

"Figuring that there would be no game, we did not practice all week. But on Friday afternoon we were told to go to New York.

STAYED UP ALL NIGHT

"Unable to secure sleepers, we had to take a day coach and the players sat up all night.

"We were in no shape to play football Sunday but even then we put up a much better exhibition than the 39 to 7 score would indicate. The Yankees carried the ball on 39 running plays and picked up total of 40 yards.

"But it was just one of those games—a long pass, a fumble and a blocked kick gave them three of their four touchdowns.

"Don't underestimate the Chiefs. We have a better line than the Bears and if we can stop Boston's passing game, we will leave here Sunday night tied with the Bears for second and there may even be a three way tie for first place if Columbus should be beaten.

"Until last Sunday," continued Bock, "we had only one touchdown scored against us and that was on a 42-yard run by Jumping Joe Williams, star of the Columbus Bulls. It was the only time the Bulls were in our territory all game but that was enough to give us our only other defeat.

CITY BEHIND CLUB

"We have had some trouble getting straightened away at Milwaukee. The original president of the club did not pay for the franchise and was so far behind in salaries that the coach and players were going to quit.

"But the American Legion has taken the team over and the Chiefs are now a civic proposition. Everything is rolling smoothly and we figure to be the team that won nine srtaight games before losing to the Columbus Bulls.

And that is the story on the Milwaukee Chiefs.

EDDIE MACK FETE AT COPLEY NOV. 9

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 23—Lou Smith, general chairman of the Eddie Mack Testimonial Dinner, announced today that the dinner to one of Boston's most beloved and colorful sporting figures will be held at the Copley Plaza Hotel on the night of Saturday, Nov. 9.

The date was originally set by the committee for the 13th of November, but the querulous Mr Mack, who has a wide and varied assortment of working jinxes, objected so strenuously to the number 13 that he overpowered the committee, one by one and all in a body. Hence the party will be held on the 9th of November.

It is already evident that the dinner will be the most tremendous testimonial ever given to any man anywhere in the New England states. Top Sergeant Mack, in case you came in late, is the former AEF hero, former Boston boxing promoter, and former Rockingham Park publicity director who has lately pulled up lame. His health has cracked slightly (but only around the edges) due to the hurried pace of his life, and his friends will crowd the Copley Plaza from cellar to ceiling to give him a loud word of cheer.

The old Top Sergeant, down the years, has run the greatest testimonials that have ever been held in Boston. He has been a chronic and persistent conductor of charity affairs and benefits and basket funds, giving of his tremendous promotorial genius from a full heart and an open hand. Those old records, that he set for others, will be smashed

RULES GOVERNING THE FOOTBALL CONTEST

NO. 5

The object of the Daily Record-American Football Contest is to select winners of twenty collegiate football games to be played each Saturday. Anyone may enter the contest excepting employes of the Record-American and their families.

The selections are listed on the chart here which is ready to be filled out by the contestant. Simply place an (X) in the space nearest the name of the team you think will win, or if you predict a tie game place the letter (T) in the spaces nearest the names of the tying teams.

Calculate the AVERAGE score of all competing teams, except those for which you predict a tie score. Write winners' and losers' average score in space provided in coupon. Do not write individual scores in spaces or on the coupon. Indicate average scores only by adding scores of all teams and then divide the total by the number of teams competing.

Only ONE solution may be entered by a contestant. All entries must be in the office of the Record-American not later than Midnight Friday, the day before the games.

You need not buy a copy of the Record or American to enter this contest. Tracings of the contest form may be made from copies in the public library or in the Record-American office. Such entries will be acceptable and given equal consideration with those clipped from these newspapers.

A prize of $100.00 will be awarded the person whose entries contain all selections correct. If more than one person submits perfect solutions, $100.00 will be awarded the tieing contestant whose average score tabulations most nearly match with actual average scores of the games. If no perfect list of solutions is entered $50.00 will be awarded to the contestant having the nearest number of selections correct and should two or more contestants tie for this prize the tieing contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the award. A prize of $25.00 will be awarded the person submitting the second largest number of correct solutions and should two or more contestants tie for this prize, tieing contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the prize. Twenty-five awards of $1.00 each will be given the twenty-five contestants whose entries contain in succession, the next largest number of correct solutions and whose average scores most nearly match the actual scores of the games.

Winners of each week's contest will be announced on the Saturday following the games. The decision of the judges in all cases shall be final.

Mail all entries in the Record-American Football Contest Editor, P. O. Box 1987, Boston, Mass.

In the event of postponement of any of the games, such games will automatically be excluded from the contest, in the event that the announced date of any game scheduled is changed, then that game is automatically excluded.

ing proposition!) or move Colby's soon-to-be-deserted hulks down to Boston—say across from Norumbega Park.

I AM AWARE THAT there are some preliminary details to work out before Fairbanks U. could be made a going concern, because "Ole Subway Tech" would need a student body to yell nine-rahs for its team, and pay some tuition profits to the registrar (plus athletic head tax) and grow up to be loyal alumni who would come back each June for step-singing, beer-reunions, class-ehindigs and, maybe, endow the founder with a personal pension.

But Shux! 'tain't no problem! Because Ole Prexy could begin by papering the house with imitation students composed of luscious, hand-picked females (fetchingly outfitted) and handsome he-boys, like he does now with complimentary passes at the current games as a kind of decoy to the paying patrons. So, pretty soon, a payload of real students would come trickling in, lured by the lop-sided scores by which his Bears are licking all opposition. And, after a couple of years, Ole Prexy wouldn't have to pay his Bears a weekly wage any more and could lasso them free and fresh from the cornbelt, mine-heads and docks with free-tuition, board, room and a little fun-fund on the side.

See how easy it is?
